

Contents

Preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xvii
About the Authors	xxiii

SECTION I: INTRODUCTION AND OVERVIEW 1

CHAPTER 1: Business Market Management: Guiding Principles 3

Overview	3
Value as the Cornerstone of Business Market Management	5
What Is Value in Business Markets?	6
Assessing Value in Practice	7
Managing Business Market Processes	9
Shareholder Value, Business Processes, and Marketing	10
Core business processes 11 / Contributions of marketing	11
Business Market Management and Business Marketing	12
Business market processes 12 / Business marketing	13
Doing Business Across Borders	15
Language and Culture	16
Cross-Border Negotiation and Dispute Resolution	19
Cross-border negotiations 19 / Cross-border dispute resolution	20
Currency Exchange and Payment Risk	21
Working Relationships and Business Networks	22
Work Teams	22
Working Relationships	25
Collaborative relationship agreements 26 / Collaborative relationship development	27
Business Networks	28
Business network characteristics 31 / Analyzing business networks	31
Summary	34

SECTION II: UNDERSTANDING VALUE 41

CHAPTER 2: Market Sensing: Generating and Using Knowledge About the Market 43

Overview	43
Defining the Market	47
Market Segmentation	47
Conventional bases of segmentation 48 / Progressive bases of segmentation	49

Determining Market Segments of Interest	53
Market segment size and growth	53 / Sales and profit potential 55
Monitoring Competition	58
A Framework for Competitor Analysis	58
Future goals	59 / Assumptions 59 / Current strategy 59 /
Capabilities	60
Improving Monitoring Performance	60
Competitor intelligence systems	60 / Seek disconfirming as well
as confirming evidence	63
Assessing Customer Value	63
Value Assessment Methods	64
Internal engineering assessment	64 / Field value-in-use assessment 64 /
Indirect survey questions	65 / Focus group value assessment 65 / Direct survey questions	66 / Conjoint analysis 66 / Benchmarks 67 /
Compositional approach	67 / Importance ratings 69
Customer Value Management	70
Translating business issues into projects	72 / Customer value workshop 72 /
Customer value research	76 / Constructing a business case for change 77 /
Value realization	77
Gaining Customer Feedback	81
Customer Satisfaction Measurement	82
American Customer Satisfaction Index (ACSI)	82 / What customer satisfaction
results mean	84
Customer Value Analysis	85
Net Promoter Score	86
Summary	89

CHAPTER 3: Understanding Firms as Customers 95

Overview	95
Understanding Purchasing Orientation	96
The Buying Orientation	98
Obtaining the best deal	98 / Maximizing power over suppliers 99 /
Avoiding risk	100 / Developments in buying 100
The Procurement Orientation	102
Improving quality	102 / Reducing total cost of ownership 103 /
Cooperating with suppliers	105
The Supply Management Orientation	106
Focus on end-users	107 / Craft a sourcing strategy 107 / Build a supply network	109 / Sustain highly collaborative relationships with select suppliers	112 / Apply purchasing portfolio management 113
Putting Knowledge of Purchasing Orientation to Use	115
Understanding How Purchasing Works with Other Functions and Firms	116
Value Management as a Cooperative Framework	116
Adding Value to the Purchasing Process Through Buying Teams	118
Team member roles	118 / Buying situations 119 / Buying team
tasks	120

Working with Suppliers and Across Functions	120
Developing supply resources	120 / Improving existing offerings 121 /
Contributing to new offering realization	121
Understanding the Purchase Decision Process	123
Understanding Customer Requirements and Preferences	123
Converge on customer requirements	124 / Map customer activity and value
cycles	126
Learning the Customer's Purchase Process	126
Evaluating Supplier Performance	128
Reviewing price, quality, and availability	129 / Scrutinizing total costs 129 /
Tracking supplier value	130
Summary	130

CHAPTER 4: Crafting Market Strategy 135

Overview	135
Business Strategy as the Context for Market Strategy	137
A Resource-Based View of the Firm	138
Core competencies	139 / Capabilities 139 / Brands as resources 140 /
Reliance on outside partners for resources	141
Fundamental Value-Based Strategies	144
Product leadership	144 / Customer intimacy 144 / Operational
excellence	145
Strategy Making	145
Who makes strategy?	146 / Defining purpose 146 / Strategy as orderly
advances punctuated by radical change	148
Planning Market Strategy in Business Markets	149
What Do We Know?	150
Review recent performance	150 / Gather essential market information 151 /
Construct scenarios	154
What Do We Want to Accomplish?	155
Targeting	156 / Setting goals and objectives 157 / Positioning in business markets	158 / Customer value propositions 159 / Building brands in business markets	164
How Will We Do It?	165
Develop an action plan	167 / Marketing and sales programs 167 /
Take stock of implementation skills	169 / Learning and adapting 170
Summary	173

SECTION III: CREATING VALUE 179

CHAPTER 5: Managing Market Offerings 181

Overview	181
Some Conventional Thinking About Market Offerings	184
The Tunnel Vision of Commodity Markets	184
Understanding the true extent of commoditization	185 / Rebuilding
differentiation	186
Services as Core Products in Market Offerings	188

Constructing Flexible Market Offerings	189
The Concept of Flexible Market Offerings	189
Articulate the Present Market Offering for Each Market Segment	191
The true breadth of the market offering	192 / The arbitrary nature of charges
Lack of variation across segments	193
Assess Customer Value and Supplier Cost	193
Measuring customer value	193 / Coming to grips with service costs
The payoff from value and cost assessments	195
Formulate Flexible Market Offerings by Market Segment	195
Reevaluating existing standard services	196 / Reexamining optional services
Building flexibility with new services	199 / Pricing implications
	200
Prepare to Implement Flexible Market Offerings	201
Option menu versus tailored-value package	201 / Branding market offerings
Anticipating implementation problems with customers	206 / Breaking away from the pack
	206
Value-Based Pricing	209
Traditional Pricing Approaches	209
Cost-plus pricing	209 / Competition-based pricing
	210
An Approach to Value-Based Pricing	211
Managing Market Offerings Across Borders	217
Adapting Market Offerings Across Borders	217
International market development	217 / Providing transnational market offerings
	218 / Global branding
	219
Pricing Across Borders	220
Pricing in local markets	220 / Harmonizing pricing across borders
	222
Summary	223

CHAPTER 6: New Offering Realization 228

Overview	228
Realization Strategy	229
Development Goals and Objectives	232
Overall development goals	232 / Project objectives
	234
The Aggregate Project Plan	236
Mapping the kinds of development projects	236 / Making capacity decisions
	242 / Gaining critical skills and capabilities
	242
Concurrent Engineering in Realization Strategy	243
Point-based versus set-based approaches to concurrent engineering	243 / Set-based concurrent engineering and flexible market offerings
	244
Outside Development Relationships and Networks in Realization Strategy	246
Alternative development structures	246 / Aims of development relationships and networks
	248 / Decision considerations
	249
Realization Process Models	250
A Variety of Realization Process Models	251
Smallfry Industrial Design	251 / Akzo Nobel Coatings
	252 / Kleinwort Benson Investment Management
	254 / ABB Asea Brown Boveri large-system projects
	256 / ABN-AMRO Bank Global Transaction Services
	257

A General Realization Process Model	258
Augmenting services in realization process models	260 / "Next-generation" realization process models 260
Market-Oriented Realization	263
Market-Oriented Research	263
Creating focused research centers	264 / Connecting research with the market 265
Market-Oriented Development	266
Positioning statements as a market-focusing mechanism	267 / Researching market requirements and translating them into design specifications 267 / Guiding realization efforts with customer value assessment 270 / Tailoring market introductions of new offerings 270
Summary	273

CHAPTER 7: Business Channel Management 279

Overview	279
Designing Superior Value-Adding Marketing Channels	281
Specify Marketing Channels Goals and Objectives	282
Assess the Customer Value of Potential TCE Elements	283
Envision a Value Proposition for Each Targeted Market Segment	284
Reformulate the Intended TCE for Each Targeted Market Segment	285
Configure the Channel Network	285
Maximize market access by balancing exposure and coverage	285 / Optimize value-added through postponement or speculation 288 / Minimize cost-to-serve via functional acquisition and functional spin-off 288 / Build a channel network model 291
Finalize Marketing and Distribution Arrangements	296
Devise profit models	298 / Carefully select channel partners 299 / Consider e-business and wireless technologies 299 / Build international marketing channels 301 / Formalize partnership agreements 303
Creating Value Through Direct Channels	304
Creating a Sales Force of Value Merchants	304
Internally promote a value-based marketing philosophy and culture	305 / Train value merchants 305 / Compensate value merchants based on profitability of accounts 306
Deploying Value Merchants	307
Establish necessary sales units	307 / Determine the number of value merchants needed 308 / Designate areas of responsibility 309 / Assign value merchants to areas of responsibility 309
Designing a Logistics System That Creates Value	309
Segment the market into logistically distinct businesses	310 / Establish differential service standards for each market segment 310 / Tailor unique logistics systems to deliver differential services 310 / Exploit economies of scale among the different logistics systems 311
Strengthening Reseller Performance	311
Build Marketplace Equity	312
Decompose marketplace equity	312 / Cultivate brand and reseller equity 313
Determine Reseller Performance Expectations	314

Assess the Reseller Value of Channel Offering Elements	314
Construct a channel positioning matrix	316
Craft a Reseller Value Proposition and Channel Offering	316
Devise and pretest the channel offering	318
Improve reseller target-marketing efforts via tailored channel offerings	319
Communicate the Reseller Value Proposition	319
Summary	322

SECTION IV: DELIVERING VALUE 327

CHAPTER 8: Gaining New Business 329

Overview	329
Differentiating Potential Business	331
Managing Single Transactions	333
Managing Long-Term Customer Relationships	333
Impact of Selection Decisions on Suppliers	335
Prospecting for New Business Relationships	336
Generating Leads from Business Market Databases	337
Prompting and Gathering Inquiries via Integrated Marketing Communications	339
Use integrated marketing communications to reach the target market	339
Encourage and process inquiries	340
Foster strong brands	342
Current challenges in designing effective integrated marketing communications campaigns	342
Qualifying Leads and Inquiries	343
Getting the Sales Force to Follow Up with Prospects	344
Provide knowledge to create an informed sales force	344
Motivate sales representatives to follow up	344
Focus on quality and timeliness of leads	345
Give sales representatives experience dealing with prospects	345
Furnish abundant sales support	346
Assessing Fit	347
Understanding and Communicating Value	347
Building the Value Stack	349
Organizing the Selling Effort	351
Scheduling the First Meeting	353
Getting started for orders	353
Initiating dialogue for new customer opportunities	353
Learning Prospect Requirements and Preferences and Communicating Value	354
Plan the call	354
Open the call	355
Investigate prospect requirements and preferences	355
Gaining the Initial Transaction	357
Transaction Versus Consultative Selling	357
Demonstrating and Documenting Value	357
Propose solutions	359
Gain the initial transaction	361
Negotiating the First Sale	363
Pricing the initial offering	363
Negotiation approaches	364
Understanding BATNA	365
Initial Order Fulfillment	365
Coordinating Supplier Functions	365

Completing the Transaction	367
Manage revenue	367 / Follow up with prospects after the sale
369
Validating the Initial Designation of Order Versus Customer	369
Summary	370
CHAPTER 9: Sustaining Reseller Partnerships	374
Overview	374
Aligning Mutual Self-Interests and Complementary Resources	375
Insuring Alignment	376
Strengthening Partnerships in a Stable Marketplace	378
Fulfilling Supplier Commitments to Deliver Value	379
Train and coach partner firms	379 / Provide responsive sales and marketing programs
380 / Back up resellers with pricing support	381 / Furnish operational and technical support
382
Fulfilling Reseller Commitments to Deliver Value	382
Provide consistently superior service to customer firms	383 / Innovate in the local marketplace
383 / Enhance the supplier's brand equity	383
Strengthening Interfirm Coordination	385
Participate in periodic joint annual planning	386 / Clarify roles and responsibilities through written agreements
386 / Improve communications through bridging	386 / Synchronize efforts with a partner relationship management system
387
Ensuring That Value Is Delivered	388
Conduct market research	388 / Getting an equitable return on delivered value
389
Responding Adaptively to Incremental Marketplace Changes	391
Adjusting Commitments	392
Establish a reseller advisory council	392 / Reformulate channel partners' gives & gets
393 / Make responsive adjustments to the joint annual plan	394 / Seek influence among channel partner firms
395 / Establish a process and procedures for conflict resolution	396
Creating Adaptive Channels	396
Provide support in extraordinary situations	398 / Responsively broaden the market offering
399 / Share capabilities with other channel members	399
Transforming Channels in the Face of Disruptive Forces	402
Creating Integrated Multi-Channels	403
Skillfully Handling Relationship Transfers	404
Delineate relationship transfer criteria	404 / Establish equitable compensation for relationship transfers
405
Terminating Partnerships	405
Summary	406
CHAPTER 10: Managing Customers	410
Overview	410
Differentiating Transactional and Collaborative Customers	411
Thinking Strategically About Relationships	411
Consider industry bandwidths	412 / Partnering as a focused market strategy
413

Pursuing Growth and Continuity	413
Pursuing Growth in a Customer Account	414
Estimate share of customer's business	415 / Two generic approaches to building share over time
416
Pursuing Continuity	421
Promote honest and open communication	421 / Build trust and commitment
421 / Implement coordination mechanisms	425 / Anticipate and resolve conflicts
426
Delivering Superior Value with Relationship-Specific Offerings	427
Construct Relationship-Specific Market Offerings	428
Price Relationship-Specific Offerings	429
Organize to Deliver Relationship-Specific Offerings	430
Focused Share Building	433
Pursue single-sourcing and multiple single-sourcing	434 / Building new organizational capabilities
434 / Adopt new profit models	436 / Document the profitability of greater share
437
Managing a Portfolio of Customers	439
Measuring Cost-to-Serve Customers and Customer Loyalty	440
Using the Loyalty Ladder to Manage Customer Relationships	441
Executing Migration Strategies	445
Emerging CRM Applications	451
Allocating resources for customer acquisition, retention, and growth	451 / Synchronizing marketing efforts
451 / Updating customer value	452
Sustaining Customer Relationships Through Connected Relationships	453
Managing within a Business Network Context	453
Adding Value Through Business Networks	456
Looking Ahead—A Final Thought on Managing Customers	457
Summary	457

Index	463
-------	-----