

Contents

Notes on Contributors xiii

Introduction I

Part I: Words

1. Words for Music Perhaps 9
KATHARINE WORTH
2. Beckett and the Sound of Silence 21
MARY BRYDEN
3. The Note Man on the Word Man: Morton
Feldman on Composing the Music for Samuel Beckett's Words and Music in The Beckett Festival of Radio Plays 47
EVERETT FROST
4. Morton Feldman's Neither: A Musical Translation of Beckett's Text 57
CATHERINE LAWS
5. Beckett and Holliger 87
PHILIPPE ALBÈRA (translated by Mary Bryden)
6. End Games 99
PETER SZENDY (translated by Veronica Heath)
7. Marcel Mihlovici and Samuel Beckett: Musicians of Return 131
EDITH FOURNIER (translated by Mary Bryden)
8. That Time: Samuel Beckett and Wolfgang Fortner 141
BRIGITTA WEBER (translated by Julian Garforth)

9. 'Something is Taking its Course': Dramatic Exactitude and the Paradigm of Serialism in Samuel Beckett 159
HARRY WHITE
10. Proust and Schopenhauer: Music and Shadows 173
JOHN PILLING

Interlude: Memories

11. Music in the Works of Samuel Beckett 181
WALTER BECKETT
12. Beckett's Involvement with Music 183
MIRON GRINDEA

Part II: Music

Two Interviews

13. LUCIANO BERIO 189
14. PHILIP GLASS 191
15. The Indifference of the Broiler to the Broiled 195
ROGER REYNOLDS
16. Towards Parole da Beckett 213
GIACOMO MANZONI (translated by Walter Redfern)
17. Songs within Words: The Programme TXMS and the Performance of Ping on the Piano 233
CLARENCE BARLOW
18. Between Word and Silence: Bing 241
JEAN-YVES BOSSEUR (translated by Mary Bryden)
19. Working with Beckett Texts 249
MELANIE DAIKEN

Contents

xi

20. A Note: Dead Calm

257

EARL KIM

Select Bibliography

259

Index

265