

CONTENTS

Preface . . . . .	5
Abbreviations . . . . .	9
I. General Introduction . . . . .	11
II. The Bible and German Romanticism . . . . .	15
III. Novalis: A mystical echo of the Canticles . . . . .	27
IV. Brentano: The desert wanderer barred from the Holy Land . . . . .	50
V. Eichendorff: Devout faith in God's presence in Nature . . . . .	82
VI. The Bible and French Romanticism . . . . .	96 X
VII. Lamartine: A revived Psalmist . . . . .	103
VIII. Vigny: A symbolist of Biblical heroes . . . . .	146
IX. Hugo: A reincarnated Prophet . . . . .	183 X
X. Conclusions: A glaring disparity between two literatures . . . . .	274
Bibliography . . . . .	286
General index . . . . .	294
Index of biblical names . . . . .	299