

CONTENTS

List of Figures	ix
About the Authors	x
Introduction	1
Part 1 An Introduction to Coaching and Mentoring	7
1 The Meaning of Coaching and Mentoring	9
2 Researching Coaching and Mentoring	28
3 Creating a Coaching and Mentoring Culture	53
4 Design and Evaluation	67
5 Models and Perspectives on Coaching and Mentoring	80
6 Conversational Learning	96
Part 2 Influences on Coaching and Mentoring	109
7 Power in Coaching and Mentoring	111
8 Multiple Relationships	125
9 E-development	140
10 The Goal Assumption: a Mindset Issue in Organizations?	151
Part 3 Contemporary Issues in Coaching and Mentoring	161
11 Supervision	163
12 Coaching and Mentoring and Diversity	177
13 Competencies, Standards and Professionalization	188

Part 4	Towards a Theory of Coaching and Mentoring	203
14	A United States Perspective on Coaching and Mentoring Dawn Chandler	205
15	Towards a Theory of Coaching and Mentoring	221
	References	233
	Index	251

LIST OF FIGURES

1.1	Percentage of agreement among practitioners about mentoring and coaching competencies	23
1.2	Dimensions framework	25
3.1	Dimensions of coaching and mentoring culture	59
7.1	Transference and countertransference in the mentor-mentee relationship	116
8.1	Formal structures. Adapted from Cross, R. and Parker, A. (2004) The Hidden Power of Social Networks . Boston: Harvard Business School Press. p. 5	133
8.2	Informal networks. Adapted from Cross, R. and Park, A. (2004) The Hidden Power of Social Networks . Boston: Harvard Business School Press. p. 5	134
9.1	E-development – advantages and disadvantages	146
9.2	A conceptual map of the E-development continuum	148
11.1	Supervision in the organizational context. Hawkins, P. and Smith, N. (2006) Coaching, Mentoring and Organizational Consultancy: Supervision and Development . Maidenhead: Open University Press. Reproduced with the kind permission of the Open University Press Publishing Company	169