

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	11
1. Introduction	13
Objectives of the present study	13
The importance of external factors	14
The structure of the report	14
PART ONE: EXPLORATION OF THE KEY ISSUES	17
2. Open, distance, individualized, independent and other learning	19
Factors favouring the growth of student autonomy	20
Approaches offering the student increased autonomy	21
Limitations	22
3. Study by correspondence	24
Enrolment survey	24
4. The structure of open learning systems	28
The student's perspective	28
College-based open systems	29
Creating learning materials	37
More fundamental difficulties	40
5. Measurement of system performance	41
Introduction	41
Open learning systems	41
Future developments	42
Monitoring each component part	45
The student's perceptions	47
6. Major policy issues	48
Accessibility	49
Administration within an LEA	52
Administration — inter-authority	52

THINKING ABOUT OPEN LEARNING SYSTEMS

7. Future growth	54
Introduction	54
Development possibilities for basic systems	54
Hindrances	56
A central agency and its influences on growth	58
The defender role	58
Conclusion	58
8. System development and staff development	60
Note	60
Prompt lists	60
Workshops	61
Select bibliography	71
APPENDICES TO PART ONE	73
Appendix 1. Summary of responses to question 12	74
Appendix 2. Summary of responses to question 11	76
Appendix 3. Alternative models of coordination	78
Appendix 4. Coombe Lodge Working Paper:
The measurement of educational output	80
Contents	80
Introduction	80
Full-time students	82
Part-time students	83
The increasing variety of course structures and attendance patterns	83
Current interest in independent learning	84
Conclusions	84
PART TWO: THE STUDY OF THE SIX SCHEMES	85
9. The nature of the study	87
Strategy	87
The systems studied	87
10. Aide-mémoire for a study of open learning systems	89
Part 1 — The Dimensions of Open Learning Systems	89
For the open learning system as a whole	89
For each individual course	89

Part 2 — The Management of Open Learning Systems	90
1. Organizational setting	90
2. Objectives	90
3. Learning situations	90
4. Staffing	91
5. Cash flows — fees and costs	91
6. Management information	92
11. A summary of the responses to the aide-mémoire	93
Part 1 — The Dimensions of Open Learning Systems	93
For the open learning system as a whole	93
For each individual course	94
Part 2 — The Management of Open Learning Systems	95
1. Organizational setting	95
2. Objectives	97
3. Learning situation	97
4. Staffing	98
5. Cash flows — fees and costs	98
6. Management information	98
12. The case studies	100
Note	100
A. FlexiStudy: a development at Barnet College	100
B. Bradford College Mathematics Workshop	117
C. Doncaster Assisted Private Study Course in quarrying	127
D. Napier College of Commerce and Technology	136
Directed Private Study for the Library Association professional examinations
E. Nelson and Colne College — the Open College scheme	149
F. South-West London College — Directed Private Study	159
APPENDIX TO PART TWO	167
Response to the aide-mémoire — Barnet College	169
Part 1 — The Dimension of Open Learning Systems	169
For the open learning system as a whole	169
For each individual course	169
Part 2 — The Management of Open Learning Systems	170
1. The organizational setting	170
2. Objectives	171
3. Learning situations	171

THINKING ABOUT OPEN LEARNING SYSTEMS

4. Staffing	172
5. Cash flows — fees and costs	172
6. Management information	173

Response to the aide-mémoire — Bradford College Mathematics Workshop	174
Part 1 — The Dimension of Open Learning Systems	174
For the open learning system as a whole	174
For each individual course	175
Part 2 — The Management of Open Learning Systems	176
1. Organizational setting	176
2. Objectives	176
3. Learning situations	176
4. Staffing	177
5. Cash flows	178
6. Management information	178

Response to the aide-mémoire — Doncaster Metropolitan Institute of Higher Education Assisted Private Study Scheme (DAPS)	179
Part 1 — The Dimension of Open Learning Systems	179
For the open learning system as a whole	179
For each individual course	180
Part 2 — The Management of Open Learning Systems	181
1. Organizational setting	181
2. Objectives	181
3. Learning situations	181
4. The DAPS section	183
5. Cash flows — fees and costs	184
6. Management information	185

Response to the aide-mémoire — Napier College	186
Part 1 — The Dimensions of Open Learning Systems	186
For the open learning system as a whole	186
For each individual course	187
Part 2 — The Management of Open Learning Systems	188
1. Organizational setting	188
2. Objectives	189
3. Learning situations	189
4. Staffing	190

5. Fees	190
6. Management information: enrolment statistics, etc	190
Response to the aide-mémoire — Nelson and Colne College	191
Part 1 — The Dimensions of Open Learning Systems	191
For the open learning system as a whole	191
For each individual course	192
Part 2 — The Management of Open Learning Systems	193
1. Organizational setting	193
2. Objectives	194
3. Learning situations	194
4. Staffing	195
5. Cash flows — fees and costs	195
6. Management information	195
Response to the aide-mémoire — South-West London College — Directed Private Study	196
Part 1 — The Dimensions of Open Learning Systems	196
For the open learning system as a whole	196
For each individual course	196
Part 2 — The Management of Open Learning Systems	197
1. Organizational setting	197
2. Objectives	198
3. Learning situations	198
4. Staffing	198
5. Cash flows — fees and costs	199
6. Management information	200