

Contents

General Editors' Foreword	ix
Author's Note and Acknowledgments	xi
Abbreviations	xiii
Part I: Rewriting Resemblance	1
1. Introduction: A Turbulence within Resemblance	3
I. Resemblance and Old French Romance	3
II. An Overture to Rewriting: Metaphorical Characterizations of Resemblance	5
III. The Critical Metaphor of Rewriting	11
IV. The Legitimacy of Resemblances: A Locus for Argumentation	14
V. A Turbulence within Resemblance	21
2. Twin Mysteries: Ceci n'est pas un Fresne	25
3. The Falsification of Resemblance	43
I. Reading the False Guenièvre	43
II. Rewriting the Boiling Fountain	60
4. On the Vicissitudes of Juncture: The Insufficiencies of Resemblance	77
Part II: Rewriting Remembrance	103
5. The Repeating Rains	105
I. From Remembrance to Remembrance	105
II. The Rains of Remembrance	113
III. From Virgil's Lethe to the Lethes of the Eneas	127
IV. Emerging from the Underworld: The Rains of Remembrance , the Golden Bough of Memory	137
V. From Rains to Rains : The Emergence of Allegory in the Prose Grail Cycle.....	147
VI. The Repeating Rains and The Turbulence within Resemblance	170
6. The Localization of the Conte : Ceci n'est pas un graal	187
Glossary	229
Bibliography	233