

Contents

To the Reader: a Preface	vii
PART I: AN INTRODUCTION	1
Unit 1: Computers Across the Curriculum	3
Unit 2: 'Where do I Begin?'	12
Unit 3: Finding Your Way Around	19
PART II: COMPUTER BASED LEARNING	23
Unit 4: Meet the Micro	25
Unit 5: Communicating with a Computer	33
Unit 6: Types of Educational Program	45
Unit 7: Judging Educational Software	52
Unit 8: Potential and Possibilities of Computer Assisted Learning	59
PART III: THE LEARNER AND THE COMPUTER	71
Unit 9: Computers in the Classroom	73
Unit 10: Psychology and Educational Computing Peter Hannon and Stuart Wooler	84
PART IV: CAL ACROSS THE CURRICULUM	97
Unit 11: Computers in Primary Education Christopher Schenk	99
Unit 12: Microcomputers and Mathematics Teaching David Jesson	113
Unit 13: Computers in Modern Language Learning and Teaching Graham Davies	134

Unit 14: CAL and English Teaching Malcolm Salt	152
Unit 15: The Humanities Ashley Kent	165
Unit 16: Science Education Clive Opie	184
PART V: INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY AND THE CURRICULUM	201
Unit 17: What is Information Technology?	203
Unit 18: Information Technology in Society	217
Unit 19: Information Technology in Education	229
Unit 20: Education and the Curriculum in an Information Society	245
Postscript	261
Index	263