

The Computer in Reading and Language Arts

COMPUTERS IN THE SCHOOLS, Volume 4, Number 1

Contents

PREFACE

- | | |
|--|----|
| Literacy Perspectives on Computers in the Schools
Jay S. Blanchard | ix |
| Computer as Tool: Classroom Application for Language Arts
Joan T. Feeley, Dorothy S. Strickland, and Shelley B. Wepner | 1 |
| The Relationship Between Computer Technology and the Reading Process: Match or Misfit?
George E. Mason | 15 |
| Instructional Design Issues in Computer-Based Reading: Reinforcement and Objectives
Jay S. Blanchard | 25 |
| Connections: Young Children, Reading, Writing, and Computers
Martha E. Irwin | 37 |
| Organizing Computers for Reading Instruction
Shelley B. Wepner and Steven Kramer | 53 |
| Computers and Reading /Language Arts: Will We Try to Cure the Problem with Turpentine?
Ernest Balajthy | 67 |
| Some Uses of Computers in Teaching English as a Second Language: The Issue of Control
Gerald M. Dalgish | 81 |
| Holistic Applications in Computer-Based Reading and Language Arts Programs
Richard Sinatra | 95 |

Studies in Word Processing and Writing	Thomas T. Barker	109
Computer-Measured Readability	Timothy C. Standal	123