

Contents

---

Series preface	Page vii
About the series editor	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction	xiii
1 Key areas for video in training and education	1
Market-produced video	1
Video recording and video feedback	3
Learner-produced video recordings	4
Issues for reflection and activity	5
Notes	6
2 Benefits and implications of using video	7
Roles played by audiovisual technology	8
Note	21
3 A development framework for organizations	22
Needs analysis	22
Learning resources audit	24
Agree development plan	26
Media selection	28
Develop course materials	29
Pilot scheme	30
Implementation	31
Evaluation	31
4 Developing learning materials around existing video resources	32
Approaches based on instructional design	32
Approaches for developing higher order skills	37
Summary of issues on designing support materials	41
5 Group-based and individual use of video	42
Group-based learning	42
Individual use of video	56
Note	65

6	Training and learning strategies	66
	Developing learning materials	66
	Teaching/training strategies	73
	Learning strategies	77
	Analysing video	81
	Cognitive diagnosis	87
	Research summary	94
	Notes	96
7	Video recording and video feedback	98
	Current practice	98
	Recording and feedback: an approach	106
	Practitioner checklist	117
8	Learner-produced video recordings	118
	Communication skills	118
	Video as a means of expression	119
	Video for collecting data and sending messages	120
	Video for self-development	120
	Video for organizational change	121
9	Evaluation, costs and copyright	122
	Evaluation	122
	Costs	127
	Copyright	133
	Notes	136
10	Competency-based education and training	138
	MCI Occupational Standards	138
	MCI Personal Competence Model	140
	TDLB Standards	141
	Coping with the terminology	141
	Surveying the Standards	142
	Summary	146
	Notes	146
	Appendix: Short directories of video distributors and producers	147
	References	151
	Further reading	155
	Index	157