Contents

2. Divided speech communities of the Soviet Union Part II. Theoretical approaches 3. G.G. Shpet, linguistic structure, and the Eurasian imperative in Soviet language reform 4. N.Ia. Marr, language history, and the Stalin cultural revolution Part III. Practical experiments 5. Mass mobilizing for Russian literacy: scripts, grammar and style 6. "A revolution for the east": Latin alphabets and their polemics Part IV. Statist solutions 7. The official campaign for Russian language culture 8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest Conclusion 17: Abbreviations and acronyms 18. Notes 18. Archival sources 22: References	Introduction	1
2. Divided speech communities of the Soviet Union 3. G.G. Shpet, linguistic structure, and the Eurasian imperative in Soviet language reform 4. N.Ia. Marr, language history, and the Stalin cultural revolution 5. Mass mobilizing for Russian literacy: scripts, grammar and style 6. "A revolution for the east": Latin alphabets and their polemics 7. The official campaign for Russian language culture 8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest 10. Conclusion 17. Abbreviations and acronyms 18. Notes 18. Archival sources References 22. References	Part I. Historical challenges
3. G.G. Shpet, linguistic structure, and the Eurasian imperative in Soviet language reform 59 4. N.Ia. Marr, language history, and the Stalin cultural revolution 81 Part III. Practical experiments 5. Mass mobilizing for Russian literacy: scripts, grammar and style 103 6. "A revolution for the east": Latin alphabets and their polemics 121 Part IV. Statist solutions 7. The official campaign for Russian language culture 143 8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest 161 Conclusion 173 Abbreviations and acronyms 185 Notes 186 Archival sources 222 References 223		15 35
in Soviet language reform 4. N.Ia. Marr, language history, and the Stalin cultural revolution 83 Part III. Practical experiments 5. Mass mobilizing for Russian literacy: scripts, grammar and style 6. "A revolution for the east": Latin alphabets and their polemics 123 Part IV. Statist solutions 7. The official campaign for Russian language culture 8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest 161 Conclusion 172 Abbreviations and acronyms Notes 183 Archival sources 184 Archival sources 225 References	Part II. Theoretical approaches
4. N.Ia. Marr, language history, and the Stalin cultural revolution 8. Part III. Practical experiments 5. Mass mobilizing for Russian literacy: scripts, grammar and style 6. "A revolution for the east": Latin alphabets and their polemics 12. Part IV. Statist solutions 7. The official campaign for Russian language culture 8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest 16. Conclusion 17. Abbreviations and acronyms 18. Notes 18. Archival sources 18. Archival sources 18. References		50
5. Mass mobilizing for Russian literacy: scripts, grammar and style 103 6. "A revolution for the east": Latin alphabets and their polemics 123 Part IV. Statist solutions 7. The official campaign for Russian language culture 143 8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest 161 Conclusion 173 Abbreviations and acronyms 185 Notes 186 Archival sources 225 References 226		81
and style 6. "A revolution for the east": Latin alphabets and their polemics 123 Part IV. Statist solutions 7. The official campaign for Russian language culture 8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest 161 Conclusion 175 Abbreviations and acronyms 18. Notes 186 Archival sources 225 References 226	Part III. Practical experiments
6. "A revolution for the east": Latin alphabets and their polemics 123 Part IV. Statist solutions 7. The official campaign for Russian language culture 143 8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest 161 Conclusion 175 Abbreviations and acronyms 185 Notes 185 Archival sources 225 References 226	- X	102
Part IV. Statist solutions 7. The official campaign for Russian language culture 8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest 161 Conclusion 175 Abbreviations and acronyms 185 Notes 186 Archival sources 225 References	6. "A revolution for the east": Latin alphabets and their	103
7. The official campaign for Russian language culture 143 8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest 161 Conclusion 175 Abbreviations and acronyms 185 Notes 186 Archival sources 225 References 226	polemics	121
8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest Conclusion 175 Abbreviations and acronyms Notes 185 Archival sources 225 References	Part IV. Statist solutions
Conclusion 173 Abbreviations and acronyms 185 Notes 185 Archival sources 225 References 226	, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,	143
Abbreviations and acronyms 18. Notes 18. Archival sources 22. References 22.	8. Stalin's linguistic theories as cultural conquest	161
Notes 183 Archival sources 225 References 225	Conclusion	175
Archival sources 225 References 225	Abbreviations and acronyms	181
References 229	- 10100	185
		287