

Contents

List of illustrations	page xi
Preface	xiii
Introduction: The European nobilities as an historical problem	1
1 Nature and numbers	15
Race and status: the biology of social mobility	16
Processes of mobility	19
Numbers	22
Privileges	28
An ideology under attack: criticism of the nobility	33
The rise of the administrative nobilities	36
Rich and poor nobles	40
The urbanization of the nobility	48
Alternative models of gentility	51
2 Wealth, privilege, and the encounter with change	60
Hierarchies of wealth	62
Land and lordship	65
Patterns of change	69
Establishing the domain	76
Administering the estate	82
The country house	89
Alternative forms of wealth	93
Serving the state	97
Spending	98
3 Nobles and politics	108
Regional communities	110
The regional community and political change	115
Revolution at the center: kings, administrators, subjects	118
The court	122
Ideals and realities	127
The problem of rebellion	134
The absolutist compromise	140

4	Lives and cultures	149
	A cultural revolution?	151
	Cultural patronage and cultural production	157
	The psychology of privacy	163
	The family and the self	168
	The problem of religion	176
	The impact of Enlightenment	183
	Conclusion: Toward a new society: the French Revolution and beyond	188
	Suggestions for further reading	202
	Index	207

Illustrations

Map: Europe in 1500

page xviii–xix

- 1 Elegance in the provinces: two nobles of Lorraine, ca. 1620 (Jacques Callot, The Nobility of Lorraine, National Gallery of Art, Washington, the Rudolf L. Baumfeld Collection, no. B-27,903 and B-27,904) 30–31
- 2 The nobility of the robe: a French official, ca. 1540 (Jean Clouet, Guillaum Budé, The Metropolitan Museum of Art, Maria DeWitt Jesup Fund, 1946, no. 46.68) 39
- 3 The ideal of simplicity: Mary, duchess of Richmond, ca. 1765 (Joshua Reynolds, Mary, Duchess of Richmond, held by The Trustees of the Goodwood Collection) 53
- 4 The rise of consumerism: a Parisian shop, ca. 1640 (Abraham Bosse, La Galerie du Palais, The Metropolitan Museum of Art, Rogers Fund, 1922, 22.67.16) 100
- 5 The court: Nancy, ca. 1625 (Jacques Callot, Parterre du Palais de Nancy, National Gallery of Art, Washington; Rudolf L. Baumfeld Collection, no. B-27,908) 130
- 6 A French courtier, ca. 1570 (Monogrammist LAM, Portrait of a Courtier in White, The Metropolitan Museum of New York, The Friedsam Collection, Bequest of Michael Friedsam, 1931, no. 32.100.119) 131
- 7 A new ideal of warfare: the Spanish army, ca. 1635 (Jacques Callot, The Review, National Gallery of Art, Washington, Rudolf L. Baumfeld Collection, no. B-27,928) 142