

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Foreword by David B. Tyack	ix
Introduction	1

Part One: Nineteenth-century studies 15

1 Aspects of neglect: the strange case of Victorian popular education	17
2 Ideology and the factory child: attitudes to half-time education	35
3 Reputation and the educational system: the case of Robert Owen	60
4 Education, opinion and the 1870s	81
5 Social science and educational reform: Britain and America in the late nineteenth century	100
6 From social science to the social sciences: reordering higher education	132

Part Two: Twentieth-century studies 149

7 The liberal and the vocational	151
8 Expectations of higher education: some historical pointers	173
9 Policy as history and as theory	239
10 Education against poverty: interpreting British and American policies in the 1960s and 1970s	257

Part Three: Research and the history of education	279
11 Comparative and cross-cultural history of education	281
12 Case study and historical research	293
Index	306