

| | |
|--|-----------|
| Acknowledgements | xi |
| Introduction | 1 |
| | |
| PART 1: "SYMBOL SYSTEMS" IN TEXTS | 11 |
| | |
| 1.0 Preliminary Statements | 11 |
| 1.1 How do "Symbol Systems" Differ from Natural Languages? | 12 |
| 1.2 Semions and Symbols : From a Semiotic Point of View | 26 |
| 1.3 Why is Knowledge of Culture-World, in Addition to Knowledge of Language, Necessary? | 31 |
| | |
| PART 2: CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORKS AND "SUBLANGUAGES" BEHIND TEXTS | 41 |
| | |
| 2.1 On Incommensurable Paradigms (CFs) | 41 |
| 2.2 SS-Systems and "Sublanguages" Within a Broader Context | 48 |
| 2.3 Fuzziness Between Boundaries | 60 |
| | |
| PART 3: HOW WE PERCEIVE TEXTS: STEPS TOWARD AN ALTERNATIVE MODEL | 71 |
| | |
| 3.1 The Paradoxical Imperative | 71 |
| 3.2 Toward a General Model of Text Perception | 85 |
| 3.3 Dreams, Art, and Conceptual Frameworks | 101 |
| 3.4 The Two Axes of Organization | 109 |
| 3.5 Metaphor and Metonymy Revisited | 113 |
| 3.6 Communication and Paradox: Carlos Fuentes' The Death of Artemio Cruz | 121 |

| | | |
|-----|---|-----|
| 3.7 | Dogmatic Slumber or Dream?: Borges' "The Circular Ruins" | 130 |
|-----|---|-----|

| | |
|---|------------|
| PART 4: TOWARD A FORMAL MODEL OF TEXTS | 141 |
|---|------------|

| | | |
|-----|---|-----|
| 4.1 | Preliminaries | 141 |
| 4.2 | The SS-System: MODEL A | 143 |
| 4.3 | Intra-Systemic Permutations | 158 |
| 4.4 | Aspects of a Diachronic Model of Text Transformations: MODEL B | 162 |
| 4.5 | Discontinuous Texts | 168 |
| 4.6 | The System Seen From Above | 179 |

| | | |
|---------------|--|------------|
| Postscript | | |
| Appendix I: | Toward a Typology of More-or-Less "Incommensurable" Systems | 187 189 |
| Appendix II: | Metaphor and Metonymy | 193 |
| Appendix III: | Catastrophe Theory | 201 |
| References | | 205 |
| Index | | 221 |