

CONTENTS

ABSTRACT	IX
INTRODUCTION	1
THE VICTORIAN MENTALITY: SAMUEL BUTLER, HENRY JAMES AND THOMAS HARDY	25
Samuel Butler and the Rigidity of Victorian Values	30
Henry James and the Free-thinking Woman	38
Women in Thomas Hardy	47
THE NOVELS AS SOCIAL AND CULTURAL DOCUMENTS	57
Immaturity and the Young Shaw	58
The Irrational Knot and "A Morally Original Study of Marriage"	67
Love Among the Artists and Shaw's Relationship with Art	77
SHAW THE SOCIALIST	85
Cashel Byron's Profession: The Mind and the Body	85
An Unsocial Socialist: A Criticism of the Novel Form	96
THE EMBRYONIC RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN SHAW'S NOVELS AND PLAYS	111
Tainted Money	113
Notorious Professions	118
Creative Evolution	125
Demystification of Traditional Romantic Situations	130
WEAVING THE THREADS TOGETHER	147
BIBLIOGRAPHY	151