CONTENTS

Preface page ix

1 PROGRAMME FOR A SYNTHESIS
1. Identifying language 1
2. The emphasis on behaviour 3
3. Meaning-nominalism 7
4. Grice on meaning 11
5. Strategy: a conceptual route 15
6. Sentence-meaning and word-meaning 17
7. Strategy: merely sufficient conditions 22
8. Thought and language 24
9. Thought without language? 27
10. Putnam's deceivers 32

2 TELEOLOGY
11. Spinoza's challenge 36
12. Teleology: the basic theory 38
13. Some earlier theories of teleology 42
14. The concept of registration 46
15. Registration: the pure theory 48
16. Registration in practice 54
17. Negative feed-back 59
18. Competing goals 61
19. Theory about preferences 65
20. Subjective probability 68
21. Teleology and mechanism 72
22. A fraudulent teleological explanation 75
23. Three corollaries 78

3 BELIEF AND INTENTION: FORM
24. Introducing intention and belief 82
25. Educability 84

26. Inquisitiveness 86
27. Two theses about belief 87
28. Introducing intention 90
29. Defending the intention doctrine 92

4 BELIEF AND INTENTION: CONTENT
30. Beliefs about the environment 96
31. Beyond the here and now: epistemic input 98
32. Beyond the here and now: behavioural output 103
33. Separating past from general 106
34. Beliefs about beliefs 110
35. Why logic needs language 113
36. What exactly does he think? 116
37. What exactly does he intend? 118
38. Intentions to produce beliefs 121

5 MEANING
39. Sufficient conditions for meaning 124
40. Weakening the conditions 128
41. Statements and injunctions 133
42. Introducing the tribe 137
43. The first case of meaning 138
44. The nature of the evidence 141
45. Credence 144
46. Compliance 145

6 REGULAR MEANINGS
47. Escaping from icons 148
48. Learning without icons 150
49. 'Novelty' in language-learning 155
50. A problem about regular meanings 159
51. Injunctions and intentions 164
52. Gricean intentions in actual languages 167
53. The sub-Gricean conditions for meaning 171

7 CONVENTION
54. Lewis on convention 176
55. How to coordinate speakers with hearers 177
56. Direct evidence for conventionality 181
57. Conventionality in communication 186
58. Indirect evidence for conventionality 187

59. Communicative conventions again 192
60. Dullards and Condescenders 194
61. Evaluating the Gricean conditions 200
62. Animal communication 202
63. How language might begin 206

8 A LANGUAGE
64. Introducing structure 211
65. The sentence-dictionary 213
66. Names and predicates 217
67. Translation through structure 221
68. Non-symmetrical predicates 224
69. Complex designators 227
70. Complex predicates 229
71. Nested clauses 231
72. Propositional operators 234
73. Quantifiers 238

9 STRUCTURE
74. The independence of syntax 242
75. The dependence of syntax 244
76. Deep structure 249
77. Quine's inextricability thesis 253
78. Quine's indeterminacy thesis 257
79. Meaning and truth 264
80. Structure before regularities 272
81. An infinity of sentences 276
82. Ziff's strategy 280
83. Grice's strategy 284

Select Bibliography 288

Index 290