

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
PREFACE . . . . .	iii
TABLE OF CONTENTS . . . . .	vi
MASTER LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS OF PERIODICALS AND SERIES . . . . .	x
LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS FOR FESTSCHRIFTEN, COLLECTIONS OF ARTICLES BY VARIOUS AUTHORS, AND PROCEEDINGS OF LINGUISTIC AND OTHER RELEVANT CONGRESSES OR CONFERENCES . . . . .	xxviii
FURTHER ABBREVIATIONS AND SIGLA USED IN THIS STUDY . . . . .	xxxvii
0.0 INTRODUCTION: Outline of the Goal of the Investigation . . . . .	1
1.0 F. DE SAUSSURE AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF HIS LINGUISTIC THEORY . . . . .	20
1.1 A Biographical Sketch on Ferdinand de Saussure . . . . .	20
1.2 The Intellectual Paradigm of Saussure's Formative Years . . . . .	37
1.2.1 The Question of Extra-Linguistic Influences on Saussure . . . . .	37
1.2.1.1 Durkheim's Principles of Sociology, Tarde's Sociological and Economic Theories, and Saussure's Alleged Sociologism . . . . .	45
1.2.1.2 Walras' Theories of Political Economy and the Saussurean Concept of Value . . . . .	67
1.3 The Question of Linguistic Influences on Saussure . . . . .	72
1.3.1 Whitney and His Consideration of General Linguistic Problems . . . . .	74
1.3.2 Neogrammarian Tenets concerning the Principles of Language (with special reference to Paul and Sievers) . . . . .	101
1.3.2.1 The Position of the Neogrammarians in Contemporary Histories of Linguistics . . . . .	101

1.3.2.2	Hermann Paul and His Principles of Language Study . . . . .	107
1.3.2.2.1	Paul's Distinction between Descriptive and Historical Linguistics, and the Aspect of Language State . . . . .	108
1.3.2.2.2	Language Usage versus Individual Expression . . . . .	113
1.3.2.2.3	Formal and Material Connections of Words . . . . .	116
1.3.2.3	Eduard Sievers and His Principles of Phonetics . . . . .	125
1.3.3	Baudouin de Courtenay, Kruszewski, and Their Ideas about Language Study in General and Their Theories of Phonological Analysis in Particular . . . . .	133
1.3.3.1	Saussure's Acquaintance with the work of the 'Kazan School', and the Importance of His Earlier Work on Baudouin de Courtenay and Kruszewski . . . . .	133
1.3.3.2	J. Baudouin de Courtenay and His Ideas concerning the Investigation of Language . . . . .	138
1.3.3.3	Mikołaj Kruszewski's Linguistic Theories . . . . .	148
1.3.4	The Humboldtian Tradition in Nineteenth Century Linguistics . . . . .	166
1.3.4.1	A Brief Survey of Humboldtian Trends at the Turn of the Century . . . . .	166
1.3.4.2	Georg von der Gabelentz and His Suggestions concerning the General Study of Language . . . . .	174
1.3.4.2.1	Gabelentz's Limited Recognition in the History of Linguistics . . . . .	174
1.3.4.2.2	Gabelentz's Principles of General Linguistics . . . . .	176
1.3.4.3	F. N. Finck and Some General Considerations concerning Language Description . . . . .	195
1.4	Concluding Remarks on the First Part of the Investigation . . . . .	202

2.0	THE EVOLUTION OF SAUSSUREAN PRINCIPLES AND THEIR RELEVANCE TO CONTEMPORARY THEORIES OF LANGUAGE . . . . .	210
2.1	The Compilation of the Cours and the Problems of Interpretation	213
2.2	Discussion of the Fundamental Concepts of Saussure's Linguistic Theory and Their Post-Saussurean Evolution . . . . .	223
2.2.1	The Distinction between langue and parole , and Its Relation to langage . . . . .	224
2.2.1.1	Precursors of the langue/parole Dichotomy or the langue/parole/langage Trichotomy . . . . .	224
2.2.1.2	The Development and Place of the langue/parole/langage Distinction in Saussure's Theory of Language . . . . .	228
2.2.1.3	Post-Saussurean Developments of the Concepts of langue , parole , and langage . . . . .	243
2.2.2	The Dichotomy of Synchrony versus Diachrony in Language Description . . . . .	263
2.2.2.1	A Brief Survey of the Pre-Saussurean Distinction between Descriptive and Historical Grammar . . . . .	263
2.2.2.2	The Interpretation of Saussure's Distinction between Synchronic and Diachronic Linguistics . . . . .	284
2.2.2.3	Post-Saussurean Discussions of the Distinction between Synchrony and Diachrony in Linguistics . . . . .	295
2.2.3	The Concept of the Language Sign and Related Notions . . . . .	311
2.2.3.1	The Question of the Sources of Saussure's Semiological Theory . . . . .	312

X 2.2.3.2	Saussure's Theory of the Language Sign and the Semiological Nature of Language . . . . .	325
2.2.3.3	Post-Saussurean Developments in Semiological Theory . . .	342
2.2.4	Language as a System of Relations: the rappports syntagma- tiques et associatifs and Kindred Notions . . . . .	354
2.2.4.1	Traditional Ideas about the Systematic Nature of Language	357
2.2.4.2	Saussure's Suggestions concerning the Systematic Nature of Language . . . . .	361
2.2.4.3	Post-Saussurean Developments of the Nature of Language as a System of Relations . . . . .	369
2.3	Concluding Remarks on the Second Part of the Inquiry . . . .	378
3.0	CONCLUSION: Saussure's Cours and the State of Linguistic Science . . . . .	389
	MASTER LIST OF REFERENCES . . . . .	405
	INDEX OF AUTHORS . . . . .	419