

Contents

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS	xiii
PREFACE	xv
I The First Scribal Cultures: Mesopotamia	I
Pre-literate man	I
Prologue: education and the world of symbols	I
Settlement of the Ancient Orient 8000–3000 B.C.	2
Proto-literate man: Mesopotamia 3000–2000 B.C.	5
The early Mesopotamian temple	5
Beginnings of reckoning and writing	6
The high cultures of Mesopotamia 2000–500 B.C.	9
Sovereignty and the rule of law	9
The mature temple	10
Literacy and learning 2000–1500 B.C.	11
Training of the scribe	12
Higher learning: the House of Wisdom	16
Decline of Mesopotamian thought: Kassite, Assyrian, late Babylonian times 1500–500 B.C.	17
2 The First Scribal Cultures: Egypt	22
Proto-literate man: Egypt 3000–1800 B.C.	22
The early Egyptian temple	23
Reckoning and writing	24

Early Egyptian literature and thought	27
Early school texts: Wisdom Literature	28
End of the proto-literate period	28
The high culture of Egypt 1800–525 B.C.	29
International period of the Empire	29
The temple during the Empire	30
Literacy and learning under the Empire	31
Training of the scribe	32
Higher learning: the House of Life	39
Expansion of the Orient: early cultures of the Mediterranean	41
Invention of the alphabet	41
3 Early Civilization of Hellas: Literacy, Learning and Philosophy	43
Origin of the Greeks	44
Minoan Crete	44
Mycenaean–Minoan Greece	44
Feudal Greece	47
The search for identity: Homer and Hesiod	48
Emergence of the polis	49
Early Greek education: Sparta	50
Ideal of valour: training the patriot warrior	52
Ideal of motherhood: the Spartan girl	55
Decline of Sparta	56
Literacy and learning in the emergent Greece	57
The commercial settlements of Asia Minor	57
Introduction of the alphabet	59
The elements of literacy	60
Early Greek philosophy	62
Sixth-century speculation in Miletus	62
Pythagoras: number and reality	64
The Eleatic school	66
The fifth century: elements and atoms	67
4 The Achievement of Athens: the Fifth Century	69
Democracy and literacy	69
Development of the Athenian democracy	69
The Attic alphabet	71

Literature and books	73
Public literacy	74
The public life: training for citizenship	78
Towards citizenship: literacy	80
Character formation: music and physical fitness	82
Military service	84
Paideia: the idea of education	85
Introduction of rhetoric: Gorgias and Protagoras	87
Approach of Socrates	88
5 Rhetoric and Philosophy: Higher Learning in Fourth-Century Athens	91
Isocrates and the school of rhetoric	92
The school of rhetoric	93
Values of rhetoric	94
Plato and the study of philosophy	97
Studies in the Academy	98
The early dialogues	100
The theory of Forms	102
A theory of education: The Republic	104
Man and the state	104
Education for leadership	105
Paideia: education towards the good	109
The mature period of Plato's thought	109
Unity in the Greek world: Panhellenism and Macedon	110
Failure of Athenian leadership	110
Expansion of Macedon	111
Towards Panhellenism: Philip and Aristotle	113
6 Aristotle and Higher Learning in Hellenistic Athens	114
Aristotle and the Lyceum	114
The Lyceum and the Aristotelian way to knowledge	114
Method: Organon	117
The natural world: Physics	119
The natural world: On the Soul	120
The supranatural world: Metaphysics	121
The human world: the way of education	122
Educational influence of Aristotle	127

Stoa, Garden and Academy: Hellenistic schools of higher learning	129
Zeno and the Stoa	129
Epicurus and the Garden	131
The Academy after Plato	133
Hellenistic learning: expansion to the Orient	134
7 The Hellenistic Orient	136
Empire of Alexander	136
Conquest of the Orient	136
Division of Alexander's oikoumene : Egypt and Seleucia	139
Hellenistic learning at Alexandria	140
Foundation of Alexandria: Mouseion and library	140
Alexandrian learning: the sciences	146
Alexandrian learning: philology	148
Developing the study of grammar	149
Enkyklios paideia: the final form of Hellenistic education	152
Elementary schooling	152
The middle school: movement to grammatical discipline	154
Conflict in higher learning	158
Growing ascendancy of Hellenism	165
8 Republic of Rome	167
Education and tradition 753-c. 250 B.C.	167
The Roman way: traditional values	168
Respect for the Roman way: training of children	170
Philhellenism and the period of major Greek influence c. 250-30 B.C.	173
Introduction of Greek education into Rome	173
Cicero: educational ideal of humanitas	177
De oratore : making of the orator	180
Formal organization of a system of education	183
Public literacy	183
Elementary education	184
The grammar school	187
School of rhetoric	188
9 Empire of Rome	191
Education and the imperial bureaucracy	191
Republic to Empire	191
Public literacy: books and libraries	193

Education and social mobility	195
Beginnings of an imperial education policy	197
Quintilian: education of the orator	199
Decline in intellectual vigour	203
Increasing conflict and tension in education	203
Suppression of critical thought	207
The movement to encyclopedism	209
Education in the later Empire: second to fifth centuries	213
10 Religious Conflict and Syncretism: Early Christian Thought on Education	217
The Hebrew dilemma	220
Hebrew reactions to Hellenism	221
Religious instruction: basis of Hebrew education	225
Precedents for Christianity: mystery cults and philosophic speculation	230
Philo of Alexandria: secular learning and the vision of god	231
Antioch: first appearance of the Christian sect	234
Imitation of Christ: the way of Christian education	236
Justin Martyr: Greek philosophy and Christian belief	238
Tatian: rejection of philosophy	239
The Christian school of Alexandria	240
Concept of paidagogos : Clement of Alexandria	241
Clement's concept of a Christian gnosis	243
God as Arch-Didaskalos : educational theory of Origen	245
Christianity and reform of the Empire	249
11 Foundations of Christian Education	254
Emergence of the monastery	257
Eremitic beginnings	257
Early corporate monasticism	260
Patristic thought and the pagan tradition	262
Mediating the classical and Christian traditions: Basil of Caesarea	262
Emergence of a new Latin scholarship: Jerome	265
Jerome and the ascetic ideal of education	269
North African Christianity: the Latin tradition of Augustine	272
Tertullian and the foundation of Latin Christian thought	272
The Christian way: the search for faith	274

	Knowledge and faith: the purpose of life	276
	Augustine's theory of education	279
	Christian political theory: City of God	282
12	Preservation of Traditional Learning: Byzantium	284
	The divided way: Greek East and Latin West	284
	Education in the eastern Empire: a period of dispute	286
	The Christian view: Lactantius and Chrysostom	287
	The pagan view: Themistius and Libanius	289
	Christian and pagan: conflicting ways	292
	Age of Justinian	297
	Sixth-century reforms of Justinian: teaching of law	297
	Byzantine difficulties after Justinian	301
	Eastern monasticism: the interior life	302
	Floruit of Byzantine monasticism	302
	Byzantine education in its mature period	305
	Resurgence of Byzantine learning: ninth to eleventh centuries	305
	Education in decline	312
	Towards a separation of Byzantium and Rome	312
	Decline of Byzantine learning	313
13	The Christian Church and Western Learning	315
	Decline of secular learning in the West	315
	Rome and the Germani: barbarian migrations of the fifth century	315
	Literacy and learning: fourth to sixth centuries	318
	Boethius: Consolation of Philosophy	322
	Cassiodorus: establishment of civilitas	325
	Western monasticism: the preservation of learning	327
	The monastery of Vivarium	327
	Monte Cassino and the Rule of Benedict	330
	Literacy and learning in the sixth century	334
	Encyclopedic conservation: Isidore of Seville	338
	Britain and Hibernia: foundation of monasteries	339
	The English monastics: Benedict Biscop and Bede	342
	NOTES	346
	BIBLIOGRAPHY	376
	INDEX	387