

Contents

Werner Huber (Vienna), Evelyne Keitel (Chemnitz), Gunter Süß (Chemnitz)

Intermedialities: An Introduction 1

Martin Middeke, Christoph Henke (Augsburg)

Baudrillard Revisited: Simulation, Simulacra, and Postmodern
Mythmaking in the Matrix Trilogy 11

Gunter Süß (Chemnitz)

"Did you ever meet a sexier male chauvinist pig?":
Robbie Williams, Irony, and Englishness 27

Monika Seidl (Vienna)

Framing Colin: The Adaptation of Classics
and Colin Firth as Mr. Darcy and after Mr. Darcy 37

Sabine Baltes (Chemnitz)

The Nanny: An American Sitcom and the English Governess Novel 51

Marie-Luise Egbert (Leipzig)

"A Good Book Speaks for Itself":
Audiobooks and Reception Aesthetics 59

Peter Paul Schnierer (Heidelberg)

Elucidating Difficult Texts: Satanic and Occult Rock Music 69

Manuela Müller (Chemnitz)

Native Cinema: "sit back, watch, and listen" 83

Marcel Hartwig (Chemnitz)
"I'm into murders and executions mostly": Inducing Psychosis in American Psycho	95
Elisabeth Siegel (Vienna)
"Another fleeting image": Pictorial Memory in John Banville's The Sea	107
Stefan Meier (Chemnitz)
The Many Faces of Don Diego Vega: The Zorro Figure as an Icon of Popular Culture	119
Eckart Voigts-Virchow (Siegen)
Paratracks in the Digital Age: Bonus Material as Bogus Material in Blood Simple (Joel and Ethan Coen, 1984/2001)	129
André Nimtz (Chemnitz)
New Worlds, Old Habits? Towards an Intermedial Definition of the Science Fiction Genre via Soundtracks	141
Evelyne Keitel (Chemnitz)
Edgar Allan Poe is Alive and Well and Living in Popular Culture: The Simpsons Episode of "The Raven"	155
Notes on Contributors	169