

CONTENTS

Maps and Illustrations	xi
Preface	xv
Technical Note	xxiii

Part One: TRANSITORY CONDOMINIUM I

1. Distinctions in Deed and Thought	3
2. An Empire of Convenience	10
Conquest by decree—The myth's revival—Contradictory traditions
3. A Mixing of Peoples	25
Habitations and highways—Division by watersheds—The Iroquois Five Nations—Nation and tribe—The Iroquois League—Champlain's attacks—Iroquois strategy
4. An Iron Dutch Chain	47
Dutch trade—Dutch war—Dutch-Mohawk alliance
5. Logistics of Intersocietal Commerce	58
The inclusive frontier—Commodity exchange between societies—The roles of merchants—Traders' travels—Intersocietal partnerships—The Southern frontier—Northern trading systems—The importance of firearms—Accommodation with violence
6. The Iroquoian "Beaver Wars"	84
Tribal competition—French policies—Disastrous effects of French missions—Iroquois initiatives and French repulses—The founding of Montreal—Mohawk aims—The Iroquois "melting pot"—Jogues's mission and assassination—Susquehannock intervention—Assault on Huronia—Downfall of Huron allies—Resistance of eastern tribes—Mohawk-Onondaga friction—Renewed war in New Netherland—A turning point
7. Odd Man Out	113
Southward from Iroquoia—Susquehannocks and Delawares—Maryland's defeat by Susquehannocks and New Sweden—Mohawk War and Maryland Peace—Dutch conquest of New Sweden—Dutch policies and practices—English harassment of New Netherland—Susquehannock alliance with Maryland—Iroquois defeats—Duke of York's conquest of New Netherland—French destruction of Mohawk towns—New York inherits New Netherland's roles—Iroquois on the defensive—Maryland's assaults on Delaware—Maryland "invites" the Susquehannocks to the Potomac—An illusion of peace

Part Two: WARRIORS 143

8. A Silver English Chain	145
Virginia and Maryland attack the Susquehannocks—Andros's first Covenant

Chain treaty for New England—Andros's approaches to the Susquehannocks—Maryland's threat to Delaware Bay—Andros's response—Maryland's "peace" strategy—Disposition of the Susquehannocks—Andros disciplines Maryland's envoy—Role of the Delawares—Iroquois legalism—Disappearance of the Susquehannocks—Baltimore's use of the treaty—Resurgence of the Mohawks—"Corlaer's" silver chain—Susquehannock revenge—Maryland's frustrations
9. Expansion and Reaction	172
Frontenac and La Salle—Senecas frustrated in the Illinois country—Mohawks divided by mission—Livingston and Dongan—La Barre—Lord Howard's treaty—Onondaga independence—La Barre's humiliation
10. "They flourish and we decrease."	186
Denonville—Dongan's expansionism—Denonville's attack—Dongan and Iroquois "subjects"—Brethren or children?—Effects of the Glorious Revolution—Iroquois-French war—Shawnees come east—Shawnees and Iroquois—Minisink Independence—Fletcher's friction with the Iroquois—Delaware independence—Iroquois losses—Peace for the English, war for the Iroquois—The Iroquois become a barrier—Livingston's "deed"
11. Permutations	214
Part Three: DIPLOMATS
	221
12. A Link Lost	223
Penn's plans—The Iroquois and the Susquehanna—Trade on the Schuylkill—Turncoat coureurs de bois—Penn's treaty with the Susquehannock / Conestogas—Tentative dealings with the Iroquois—Penn's personality and status—Penn's policies toward Indians—The Great Treaty with the Delawares—James Logan
13. Mending Chain	249
The warriors' path southward—Trade and hospitality at the Susquehanna—Logan as merchant—Botched plan to invade Canada—Tuscarora negotiations—Decansora's secret treaty—Canadian invasion bungled again—Hospitality for Tuscaroras and Mennonites—Delawares and Iroquois—Logan's supremacy—Logan as land speculator—Encroachment at Conestoga—Alienation of Chartier's Shawnees—Logan and the Delawares—Markets and immigrants
14. A Vise Made in Europe	275
Keith versus Logan—William Penn's contested inheritance—Virginia complains about the warriors' path—Perils at Conestoga—A frontier line proposed—Iroquois soundings about trade—Conflicts of interest—Trade between Montreal and Albany—English imperialists' new western strategy
15. Desperation in Iroquoia	289
Iroquois status on the Susquehanna—The murder of Sawantaeny—Breach of the Susquehanna boundary—Keith's business at Albany—Spotswood's ambiguous frontier line—Iroquois responsibility for the other tribes—The unsuppressible Montreal-Albany trade—Competition in fort building—Delawares and Shawnees reject Iroquois proposals for war—"Women" and the west—General Indian unrest—Logan's treaties—Shawnee flight—Iroquois losses

16. A New Fire	309
Logan's straits—Reduction of the Tulpebockens—New proposals to the Iroquois—The Penns' debts—Penns sell Indian lands—Nutimus resists—The Iroquois become police—The Six Nations' price
17. Chain into Fetters	325
Delaware land tenure—Cessions to Pennsylvania—The lands of Nutimus—The "ancient deed"—Rehearsal for a Walk—A real estate lottery—More Shawnees flee, and the Mohawks grumble—A confidence game and the Walk—Anger, threats, and violence—Conquest of the eastern Delawares
18. Summit and Slope	347
Settlers: Scotch-Irish and Moravian—The turbulent Ohio country—Mohawk travail—Virginians attack an Iroquois party—Treaty at Lancaster—Canasatego's traditional history—Rights of conquest, again—Iroquois cessions—Worm-eaten triumph—Onondaga's about-face—Privilege withdrawn
19. Conflict and Accommodation	367
Indian collaboration with Europeans—The League and the Chain—New York's dual center—Tribal insubordination—Functions of treaties—Ambiguity of the Chain—Our side and their side
Appendices	377
A. A council at Onondaga, as reported by Conrad Weiser in 1743
B. Documents of the Walking Purchase
C. On the undoing of history
Bibliography	407
Index	429