

Contents

Preface	xi
Prologue: Indians and Whites—An Essay on Misunderstanding	1
I Indian-White Contact: Background	17
1 The White Man's Frontier in American History: The Impact upon the Land and the Indian	19
2 Unsavory Sidelights on Colonial Trade	31
3 Wampum and the Protocol of Treaty-Making	41
4 White Gift-Giving: French Skills in Managing the Indians	50
II Indian-White Contact: Frontier Conflicts	59
5 British Indian-White Relations: Edmond Atkin's Scheme for Imperial Control	61
6 A Message to Fort William Henry: Drama of Siege and Indian Savagery	68
7 Gift-Giving and Pontiac's Uprising	75
8 Pontiac's War—A Conspiracy?	83
9 1763—Year of Decision on the Indian Frontier	94
III Indian-White Contact: Final Perspectives	105
10 The Noble Savage Theme: Attitudes and Policies toward the Indian in the British Colonies	107
	vii

11	The Price of Progress: Native People on the European Frontiers of Australia, New Guinea, and North America	126
	Epilogue: What We Owe the Woodland Indians	151
	Appendix 1: Chronological Highlights of Early Indian-White Relations	175
	Appendix 2: Chronological Highlights of Early Native-White Contacts in Australia and Papua-New Guinea	179
	Footnotes	181
	Note on Sources	221
	Index	230

Maps

Page
6–7	The Colonial Indian Frontier
14	The Southern Indian Tribes
98–99	Proclamation line of 1763, Indian Cessions, and the Land Companies
101	The Southern Indian Boundary Line
129	Australia
131	Papua-New Guinea

Maps on pages 6–7, 14, 101, 129, and 131 by Robert Sugar.

Illustrations

Page
22	Frederick Jackson Turner with his daughter, 1904
27	The Wilderness Frontier in the 1760s
45	Penn Wampum Belt
72	Message to Fort William Henry, 1757
91	Francis Parkman, c. 1850

- 115 Sketches by Frederic Remington: Bush ranger of the French and Indian War; French coureur de bois, woodsman-trader
- 124 Massasoit, the Noble Savage
- 143 Entrance to the Amoonguna Territorial Aboriginal Reserve, near Alice Springs, Australia; A typical "Swago" village house
- 144 A native house in Lai, Papua-New Guinea; Australian Aboriginal children
- 145 School children near Mt. Hagen, Papua-New Guinea; a highland man near Mt. Hagen, Papua-New Guinea
- 146 Native man in a "Swago" village; Outdoor market, Port Moresby, Papua-New Guinea
- 147 A highland headman, Mt. Hagen, Papua-New Guinea; a Sepik River headman; native artisan presenting an unusual artifact, interior Sepik village
- 157 Iroquois Reservation, Brantford Ontario: Longhouse Church, Six Nations' Council House
- 162 Tuscarora Reserve, Niagara, New York; Elm-bark longhouse, birchbark tepee & canoe
- 169 Lapowinsa, a Delaware chief, 1734