

Contents

|  |                 |
|--|-----------------|
| Contributors  | page vii |
| Editors' preface  | ix              |
| Introduction   | 1               |
| MALCOLM V. JONES   |                 |
| PART ONE   |                 |
| 1 The young Dostoyevsky: an assessment in the light of recent scholarship                                  | 21              |
| VICTOR TERRAS  |                 |
| 2 The causes of crime and the meaning of law: Crime and Punishment and contemporary radical thought | 41              |
| DEREK OFFORD   |                 |
| 3 Across the threshold: The Idiot as a Petersburg tale  | 67              |
| SIDNEY MONAS   |                 |
| 4 The Devils : the role of Stavrogin  | 95              |
| R. M. DAVISON  |                 |
| 5 Ivan Karamazov   | 115             |
| F. F. SEELEY   |                 |
| PART TWO   |                 |
| 6 The religious dimension: vision or evasion? Zosima's discourse in The Brothers Karamazov          | 139             |
| SERGEI HACKEL  |                 |

Contents

|   |   |     |
|---|---|-----|
| 7 | The philosophical dimension: self and freedomSTEWART R. SUTHERLAND              | 169 |
| 8 | Formalist and structuralist approaches toDostoyevskyCHRISTOPHER R. PIKE     | 187 |
|   | Dostoyevsky studies in Great Britain: abibliographical surveyGARTH M. TERRY | 215 |
|   | Index  | 249 |