

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	xi
Kevin Dvorak &amp; Shanti Bruce

PART I—EXPLORATIONS IN CREATIVITY

1	Creativity in the Writing Center: A Terrifying Conundrum	3
	Elizabeth H. Boquet and Michele Eodice
2	Then Everybody Jumped for Joy! (But Joy Didn't Like That, So She Left): Play in the Writing Center	21
	Scott L. Miller
3	Writing Centers and Politics of Community, Identity, and Social Justice	49
	Harry C. Denny
4	Hideaways and Hangouts, Public Squares and Performance Sites: New Metaphors for Writing Center Design	71
	Derek Owens
5	"Literativity": Reconceptualizing Creative Literacy Learning	85
	sj Miller

PART II—CREATIVITY AND TUTORING WRITING

6	A Play about Play: Tutor Training for the Bored and Serious, in Three Acts	97
	Lisa Zimmerelli
7	Putting the "Play" Back into Role-Playing: Tutor Training through Interactive Performance	115
	Sandee K. McGlaun

8	Incorporating Play and Toys into the Writing Center Chad Verbais	135
9	Tutoring Creative Writers: Working One-to-One on Prose and Poetry Hans Ostrom	147
10	Drawing the (Play)Spaces of Conferences Anne Ellen Geller	159

PART III—THE “CREATIVE” WRITING CENTER

11	Center Stage: Performing the Culture of Writing at Stanford Wendy Goldberg	177
12	Building Labyrinths in Order to Escape: A Guide to Making Play Work Julie Reid	193
13	Writing Groups for Teachers: Opportunities for Imagination, Creativity, and Renewal Dawn Fels	207
14	Portfolio Pandemonium: More Than A Practical Solution Jill Pennington &amp; Timothy A. Miank	223
15	Invitations and Voices : Fostering Creative Expression Carol Severino &amp; Cinda Coggins Mosher	235
16	Publicity, Play, Pedagogy: The Story of the Never-Ending Story Derek Boczkowski, Ian Randall, Truly Render, &amp; Sarah Sinovic	261
	About the Contributors	279
	Author Index	285
	Subject Index	289