

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
List of Contributors	xiii
Part 1: Introduction	1
1 Introduction John Storey, Dave Ulrich and Patrick M. Wright	3
Part 2: Analytical frameworks	15
2 Beyond HR: Extending the paradigm through a talent decision science John W. Boudreau and Peter M. Ramstad	17
3 The employment perspective in strategic HRM Paul Edwards	40
4 Critical perspectives on strategic HRM Mats Alvesson	52
Part 3: The external environment of SHRM	69
5 Foundations for understanding the legal environment of HRM in a global context Mark V. Roehling, Richard A. Posthuma and Stacy Hickox	71
6 New organizational structures and forms John Storey	90

7	Changing labour markets and the future of work David Coats	106
Part 4: The strategic role of HR		123
8	The knowledge underpinning HR strategy John Storey	125
9	The pursuit of HR's core purpose: The practical doing of strategic HRM Anthony J. Rucci	137
10	Managing strategic change David A. Buchanan	149
Part 5: The HR function		165
11	HR competencies that make a difference Wayne Brockbank and Dave Ulrich	167
12	The next evolution of the HR organization Dave Ulrich, Jon Younger and Wayne Brockbank	182
Part 6: Areas of practice		205
13	Recruitment and selection Christopher J. Collins and Rebecca R. Kehoe	209
14	Compensation Barry Gerhart	224
15	Strategic performance management: Issues and trends Manuel London and Edward M. Mone	245
16	Strategic training and development Raymond A. Noe and Michael J. Tews	262
17	Collaborative teams Lynda Gratton and Tamara J. Erickson	285
18	Employee engagement John Storey, Dave Ulrich, Theresa M. Welbourne and Patrick M. Wright	299
Part 7: The capability-building perspective		317
19	Leadership development and talent management David D. Hatch	321

20	Human resources, organizational resources, and capabilities Patrick M. Wright and Scott A. Snell	345
21	Options for human capital acquisition Mousumi Bhattacharya and Patrick M. Wright	357
	Part 8: Changing contexts	375
22	The changing context for HR Tamara J. Erickson	377
23	Research at the intersection of Strategic Human Resource Management and entrepreneurship Janice C. Molloy, Judith W. Tansky and Robert L. Heneman	390
24	Identifying and developing Global Leaders Schon Beechler and Dennis Baltzley	410
	Part 9: Regions	433
25	Managing human resources in India Pawan S. Budhwar	435
26	HRM in China Fang Lee Cooke	447
27	Managing human resources in Africa: Emergent market challenges Frank M. Horwitz	462
	Part 10: Performance outcomes	477
28	HRM, the workforce, and the creation of economic value Richard W. Beatty	479
29	The effect of organizational change on managers' experience of their working lives Les Worrall and Cary L. Cooper	488
30	Linking human resource management and customer outcomes David E. Bowen and S. Douglas Pugh	502
	Index	519

Illustrations

Figures

2.1	DuPont return on equity model	24
2.2	Finance, marketing and talentship decision frameworks	25
2.3	Yield curves for automobile features: tires vs. interior design	35
5.1	Sources of law contributing to the legal environment of HRM in a global context	75
6.1	Mapping the forms of work coordination	93
7.1	Employment change in the UK labour market 1996–2006 (% share of total employment)	108
7.2	Occupational change in the UK 1984–2014 (% of all in employment)	110
8.1	Types of knowledge underpinning HR strategy	128
8.2	Complementary multiple pathways to HR strategy formulation	134
9.1	A simple idea about intangible value creation	143
10.1	HR change agent roles	151
11.1	Competency model for the HR value proposition	170
12.1	Alignment of business organization and HR organization	184
12.2	Overview of the HR organization	189
13.1	Alternative staffing system models	210
14.1	Dimensions of total rewards and total compensation	225
14.2	Pay-for-performance (PFP) programs, by level and type of performance measure	229
15.1	The performance management cycle	246
16.1	The strategic training and development process	263
18.1	The VOICE framework	304
18.2	Interactive effect of energy and engagement on individual employee performance	312
19.1	The right stuff	324
19.2	Highest leverage developmental experiences	334
19.3	The integrated talent management process	339

ILLUSTRATIONS

20.1	Complete value chain	350
20.2	Starbucks coffee	352
21.1	Options model for human capital acquisition	363
22.1	Shifts in retirement patterns	385
24.1	Information-processing model for leaders	419
24.2	Characteristics of Global Leaders	421
28.1	Leading the workforce management transition	482
28.2	The strategic context of workforce management systems	484
30.1	A model linking HRM practices and customer outcomes in services	503

Tables

9.1	HR's core purpose and strategic implications	139
10.1	Change agency roles	152
10.2	Political tactics	158
11.1	HR effectiveness in each competency category and the influence of each competency category on business performance	170
12.1	Functional HR, shared services, and dedicated HR	187
13.1	Components of alternative recruitment and staffing models	214
14.1	Average hourly labor costs for manufacturing production workers, by country 2005 (in equivalent US dollars)	228
15.1	Examples of seminal theories and research guiding performance management policies and programs	248
15.2	Example of strategic performance management relationships – an HR department and recruiting manager	250
15.3	Strategic performance management at GHT	257
15.4	Improvement in “compliance to deadlines” over time	258
15.5	Lessons learned from GHT	259
16.1	Tannenbaum's (2002) strategic learning imperatives	263
16.2	Intellectual capital indicators and sample measures	276
16.3	Examples of training and development measures used in SHRM research	278
19.1	Contrast between changing global business and a mature domestic business environment	327
19.2	Components of talent management	338
21.1	Comparison of financial, real, and human capital options	361
23.1	Founding conditions: typology of entrepreneurial enterprises	396
24.1	Differences between expatriate and global managers	413
24.2	Traditional and global mindsets	414
24.3	Competencies of the global executive	415
26.1	Employment statistics by ownership in urban and rural areas in China	449
26.2	Key characteristics of HRM in different ownership forms	450
29.1	The incidence of organizational change by type of organization (percentage of managers citing)	492
29.2	The effect of long working hours by level in the organization (percentage citing that working long hours has a negative effect)	495

29.3	The percentage of managers citing that they have “sometimes” or “often” experienced various ill-health symptoms	496
29.4	Percentage of managers agreeing with each statement	496
29.5	Correlations between physical and psychological health and stressors	497