
The CONTENTS of the Second DIALOGUE.

T HE modern Opinion concerning the stomachick Ferment.	Page 84
Concoction perform'd without the help of Heat, in Fishes,	86
Which it is not in human Creatures.	87
Various Opinions concerning the Causes of Concoction.	88
The various Hypotheses, concerning the Seat of the Hypochondriack and Hysterick Diseases.	90
The Hypothesis of Dr. Sylvius de le Boe.	91
The Hypothesis of the four Humours, and their proper Purges.	ibid.
Van Helmont's Opinion of it.	92
The Stomach the Seat of the Hypochondriack Passion.	94
But not for the Reasons of either Diocles or Dr. Highmore.	ibid.
The Body compared to a Still, by Dr. Willis.	95
That Comparison examined into.	99
The Office of the Spleen, according to Willis.	101
His Opinion refuted.	102
The Hypothesis of Velthufius, concerning the Splenetick Ferment.	103
His Compliment to Hypochondriacal People.	105
The Hypochondriacal Passion call'd the Disease of the Learned in High-Dutch.	106
The anatomical Observations of Velthufius, concerning the Spleen examined.	108
The Analogy between the Spleen and genital Parts consider'd.	110
Two Hysterick Cases.	112
Remarks on a Treatise of Vapours.	113
The Use of several Viscera unknown yet.	116
The Manner after which all Hypotheses are made in Physick.	117
	An

The C O N T E N T S.

An Hysterick Case, destroying the last-cited Hypothesis.	p. 118
Dr. Sydenham's Opinion concerning the Cause of Vapours.	ibid.
His Skill in the Nature of Fevers, and Candour.	119
Dr. Baglivi's Instruction, in order to make a lasting Hypothesis.	120
The Reason why all Astronomers agree in their Predictions, tho' in their Hypotheses they differ.	121
The Solution of the Phœnomena, by an Hypothesis, no Argument of its being true.	123
The small Use Hypotheses are of to Astronomers.	ibid.
The modern Philosophy compared to that of the Ancients.	124
The Fate of all Hypotheses.	126
A Question concerning empirical Practice.	128
Philopirio's Motive why he refused to give Reasons.	129
What sort of Reasoning to be allow'd in Physick.	130
A Custom in foreign Universities.	131
The chief Cause of the Hypochondriack and Hysterick Passions.	132
Practical Observations of Dr. Tulpius and Platerus.	133
A Debate concerning the Existence of animal Spirits.	135
What has hinder'd the Encrease of our Knowledge, concerning Concoction in human Creatures.	138
An Experiment of Dr. Musgrave.	140
How far muscular Motion may help Digestion.	141
The Causes of Concoction are different in different Creatures.	143
Of Trituration in Fowls.	144
An Observation on the inner Coat of Gizzards.	145
The Softness of the inner Coat of the Stomach in an Ostrich.	146
The Texture of Membranes and Vessels, &c. differs according to the different Purposes they are made for.	147
Which way Concoction might be perform'd by Trituration in Birds.	149
Nature's Provision for Wear and Tear in living Creatures.	151
The

The CONTENTS.

The difference between Birds and human Creatures, as to Concoction.	p. 152
The Power of animal Spirits upon the Stomach.	153
The Reason why the animal Spirits must differ in Subtility.	156
The Soul and Spirits compared to an Artificer's Skill and his Tools.	159
A Definition of Thinking.	160
An Essay upon the Action of Recollecting in the Brain.	161
What Parts may be influenced in their Operations by Thinking.	162
The Debate on the Spirits continued.	165
The Reason why the Difference in the Degrees of Spirits is insisted upon.	166
The Benefit the Blood receives from Exercise.	167
Part of the Spirits when made.	169
Why we cannot enter into the Mechanism of our Bodies.	171
Of the Soul's Power without the Body.	ibid.
The Usefulness of Mathematicks in the Civil Society.	172
They are as impertinent in the Cure of Diseases, as they are in the Cure of Souls.	ibid.
What Benefit they may be of to Divines as well as Physicians.	173
The Causes of the Encrease of Mathematicians in Number.	175
The Mathematicks are become the fashionable Study of the Age.	176
There is no thriving in any Profession, without complying with the Modes of the Times.	ibid.
A Story to illustrate that Assertion.	177
The Use of Mathematicks in the Art of Medicine.	179
Why the Study of the Mathematicks is so bewitching as it is.	180
Why Mathematicks can be no Help in the Cure of Diseases.	183
A Scheme to bring purging and emetick Medicines to mathematical Certainty.	184
Why such Attempts will always be fruitless	185
The Data of the aforesaid Scheme examin'd into.	186
Obser-

The CONTENTS.

Observations on the working of Purges and Emeticks.	191
On what Occasions it is that Physicians stand most in need of Directions, as to Purging and Vomiting.	195
How Mathematicks may be useful in the Theory of Physick.	196
What a compleat Anatomist is to know.	ibid.
Why Botany seems to have deserted the Art of Physick.	197
What is useless to Patients may be very proper to raise the Fortunes of Physicians.	198
Those who know but little of the Mathematicks are the loudest for the Necessity of it in Physick.	200
The Perplexity of some Physicians for not having learnt the Mathematicks.	201
The Opinion which the World has of the Usefulness of Mathematicks in Physick.	202
What it is that the Physician is paid for..	203
The Behaviour of Physicians is always suitable to the Opinion that is had of their Art	204
Advice to young Physicians, how to make their Fortune in the present Age.	205
Many things are corporal that seem to belong to the Soul.	207
The procatartick Causes of Misomedon's Distemper.	208
The ill Consequences of Excess in Venery.	209
Misomedon's Invective against Love.	210
A further Enquiry into the Procatartick Causes of his Distemper.	212
The Cause manifested from the Concurrence of the Symptoms.	214
Why Men of Learning are more subject to be Hypochondriacal than others.	216
A notable Case of Indigestion from a Deficiency of the Spirits.	218
Other procatartick Causes.	219
Prognosticks to be made on Misomedon's Distemper.	221
Misomedon's Confidence in Philopirio.	222