

Contents

List of figures	page xii
List of tables	xiii
Foreword	xiv
Acknowledgements	xvi
List of conference participants	xvii

1 Introduction	1
Gianluca Fiorentini and Sam Peltzman
1 Overview	1
2 Alternative views on the nature of organised crime	3
3 Theories of the state and criminal organisations	8
4 The activities of organised crime	11
5 Problems in normative analysis	16
6 Alternative deterrence policies	19
7 Conclusions	26

PART I THEORIES OF THE STATE AND THE ORIGIN OF CRIMINAL ORGANISATIONS

2 Organised crime, mafia and governments	33
Annelise Anderson
1 Introduction	33
2 Why mafias develop	35
3 The American and Sicilian mafias and the business firm	38
4 Transaction cost analysis and the Sicilian mafia	42
5 Public policy implications and further research	47
Discussion	54
Maurizio Franzini

3	Gangs as primitive states	61
	Stergios Skaperdas and Constantinos Syropoulos
1	Introduction	61
2	Origins in anarchy	63
3	Evolution	69
4	Concluding comments	76
	Discussion	82
	William J. Baumol

PART II THE CRIMINAL ORGANISATION AS A FIRM

4	Internal cohesion and competition among criminal organisations	87
	Michele Polo
1	Introduction	87
2	The military technology and the probability of success	89
3	Internal contracts and the dimension of the organisation: the monopsony case	91
4	Internal organisation and competition among rival families	97
5	Conclusions	103
	Appendix	104
	Discussion	109
	Pier Luigi Sacco
5	Conspiracy among the many: the mafia in legitimate industries	116
	Diego Gambetta and Peter Reuter
1	Introduction	116
2	The form of cartel agreements	118
3	A comparison of the Sicilian and New York mafias	119
4	Instances of mafia cartels	121
5	Conditions of emergence	125
6	Consequences	128
7	Conditions of disappearance	130
8	Prices and profits	132
9	Conclusions	133
	Discussion	136
	Luigi Campiglio

PART III ORGANISED CRIME AND STATE INTERVENTION IN THE ECONOMY

6	Rival kleptocrats: the mafia versus the state	143
	Herschel I. Grossman
1	Introduction	143
2	Production with a monopoly state	144
3	Welfare maximisation with a monopoly state	146
4	Kleptocratic policy with a monopoly state	147
5	The mafia as an alternative provider of public services	148
6	Nash equilibrium	151
7	Disruptive effects of the mafia	153
8	Conclusions	154
	Discussion	156
	Marco Celentani
1	Competition between mafia and the government	156
2	Free riding	157
3	Conclusions	159
7	Corruption: arm's-length relationships and markets	161
	Vito Tanzi
1	Introduction	161
2	Markets and government	162
3	Arm's-length relationships and cultures	164
4	On corruption	167
5	Economic consequences of corruption	170
6	Policy implications	172
7	Corruption and organised crime	174
8	Concluding remarks	176
	Discussion	181
	Flavio Delbono

PART IV DETERRENCE POLICIES AGAINST LEGAL FIRMS INVOLVED IN ILLEGAL ACTIVITIES

8	Auditing with 'ghosts'	185
	Frank A. Cowell and James P. F. Gordon
1	Introduction	185
2	The model	186
3	Random audit	188

x Contents

4	Conditioning audit probability on reported output	191
5	Random audit versus the cut-off rule	193
6	Conclusion	195
	Discussion	197
	Domenico Siniscalco
9	The reputational penalty firms bear from committing criminal fraud	199
	Jonathan M. Karpoff and John R. Lott Jr
1	Introduction	199
2	The theory of criminal penalties for frauds	201
3	Data and empirical method	205
4	Empirical results: stock return forecast errors	211
5	The amount of lost reputation	218
6	Comparing the expected penalty to the cost of the crime	228
7	Earnings changes around corporate fraud announcements	229
8	Aggregate wealth effects of the Sentencing Commission's guidelines	232
9	Conclusion	236
	Appendix 1: Test statistics	237
	Appendix 2: Estimation of expected criminal fines using the data from the Federal Probation and Parole Sentencing and Supervision Research File	238
	Discussion	246
	Michele Polo
PART V DETERRENCE POLICIES AGAINST ORGANISED CRIME
10	Regulating the organised crime sector	253
	Marco Celentani, Massimo Marrelli and Riccardo Martina
1	Introduction	253
2	Description of the setting	256
3	The model	257
4	Government commitment strategies	261
5	Conclusion	267
	Discussion	269
	Carlo Scarpa

11	Oligopolistic competition in illegal markets	274
	Gianluca Fiorentini
1	Introduction	274
2	Competition in outputs	276
3	Competition in prices	283
4	Conclusions	288
	Discussion	292
	Sam Peltzman
	Index	296

Figures

3.1	How the gang could form	page 71
3.2	Subjugational equilibrium	73
4.1	The contract wage as a function of the distance between principal and agent	96
4.2	The enrolment of members with two competing families with principals sufficiently far apart	102
4.3	The enrolment of members with two competing families with principals too close	103
8.1	Sales decisions of a diversifier	190

Tables

3.1	Effects on equilibrium share of agent 1 of increases in α , β_1 , γ_1 and R_1	page 67
5.1	Conditions favouring the emergence of mafia-controlled cartels	128
9.1	The distribution of the fraud sample by type of fraud and industry of accused firm, 1978–87	209
9.2	Average and cumulative average daily stock return forecast errors for all 132 events	212
9.3	Percentage changes in common stock market value by type of fraud and event date	215
9.4	Summation of the two-day stock return forecast errors over date types	216
9.5	Dollar changes in common stock market value by type of fraud and event date	220
9.6	Comparisons of actual and predicted court-imposed penalties with changes in market value	222
9.7	Earnings changes around fraud announcement	231
9.8	Market-wide effects of the Sentencing Commission guidelines	234
9A2.1	Explaining the criminal fines firms face from conviction	239