

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Introduction	1
Perspectives on the Nazi Seizure of Power, 30 January to 14 July 1933	1
New Aspects of the Nazi Seizure of Power	5
Previous Assessments of the Nazi Seizure of Power	7
The DNVP: Mass Party or Party of Notables?	15
Overview of Contents	28
CHAPTER I
Pragmatists versus Fundamentalists: The DNVP in the Weimar Republic, 1918–1933	30
The DNVP during the Early Republic (1920–1924)	33
The Dawes Plan	38
From the Dawes Plan to Hugenberg (1924–1928)	42
The End of Conservative Moderation	50
The Young Plan	53
The First Division	56
Toward a More Authoritarian Republic	60
The Second Division	65
The DNVP and the Rise of Nazism	70
German National Assessments of Nazism before 1933	76

CHAPTER II

Uneasy Partners: The Relationship between the DNVP and the Nazis, 30 January–5 March	83
The Impact of 30 January	89
Opposition to Nazi Repression and Increasing Terror	101

CHAPTER III

Conservatives and the NSDAP during the “National Revolution” of March 1933	114
Becoming Obsolete: The Outcome of the March Elections	117
Crusades against Bourgeois Corruption and Special Interests	126
Nazi Attacks Prepare the Takeover	129
Conservative Bastions under Attack	133
The Last Hurdle: Potsdam and the Enabling Act	138

CHAPTER IV

The Nazis and the Conservative Bürgertum : A Clash of Worlds	146
Nazi “Revolutionary Fervor” in Action	149
Traditional Hierarchies and Conservative Values on the Line	155
Anti-Bourgeois Ideology and Rhetoric	160
The “Demise” of the Bürger	166
The Anti-Bourgeois Thrust of the Nazi Social Revolution	169

CHAPTER V

Between the Dictates of Conscience and Political Expediency: The DNVP and Anti-Semitism	174
A Contradictory Record: Previous Research on the DNVP and Anti-Semitism	176
Anti-Semitic Violence	182
Conservatives and Anti-Semitism	188
Nationale Juden	194
Protest, Regret, and Efforts to Help	199
Rejection and Disapprobation	205
The German National Predicament	210
Conclusion	216

CHAPTER VI

Rebellion against the Inevitable: The Tribulations of Spring 1933	219
"False Friends": Nazis Turn Their "Revolutionary Fervor" against German Nationals	228
Loss of Influence in Economic and Professional Organizations	233
Physical Violence and the Threat of Arrest	236
The Vain Struggle to Survive: German Nationals Imitate Nazi Styles	243

CHAPTER VII

Ignominious Demise: Defections, Prohibitions, and Final Dissolution	253
A Change in Climate	253
Prohibitions, Desertions, and Dissolutions	270
The End	283
Epilogue	294
Conservatism, National Socialism, and German History	294
National Socialism as an Anti-Bourgeois Movement	299
Appendix	305
Select Bibliography	309
Archival Sources	309
Newspapers and the Contemporary Periodical Press	314
Published Primary Sources and Secondary Literature	315
Index	333