

Contents

Acknowledgments	xi
Note on Documentation and Style	xiii
List of Abbreviations	xv
Preface	xvii
Part One: Gershom Scholem and Walter Benjamin	1
Introduction
The Story of a Friendship: Germans and Jews	3
The Catastrophes of Progress	7
1. Language and Redemption	15
Language Critique	16
The Philosophical Quest for Language as Knowledge	20
“The Task of the Translator”	25
The “Pure Language”	32
Hermetic and Orphic Language	33
“Plenty of Hope, but Not for Us”	38
Scholem and Messianic Delay	44
Kafka	47
Halakah and Aggadah: Anarchic Suspension and Historical Concretion	52
2. Suspended over the Abyss	62
“On Language as Such”	62
Interpreting Genesis	66
Hidden Ideologies in Debates over Theories of Language	71
Language, Materialism, and the Mimetic Faculty	78
The Meaningless Word and the Divine Nothing	82
3. The Legacy of German Idealism	93
Jewish Law and German Idealism	97

German Romanticism and "Spilt Religion":
The Symbol	102
Scholem and Symbol	104
The Symbol as Static or Dynamic	110
4. Allegory and Redemption	116
Benjamin and Scholem: The Politics of Historiography	116
Benjamin: The Critic as Allegorist and the German Tragic Drama	123
Faithfulness and Betrayal: Sacred and Profane	128
Benjamin's Baroque Allegory and deMan's Deconstructionist Criticism	132
The Return of the Symbolic: Hope for the Hopeless	137
Allegory and Modernity	140
Citing the Past	143
5. Memory Is the Secret of Redemption:
Messianism and Modernity	149
History, Modernity, and Messianism	153
History Will Not Bring the Messiah	160
"My secularism is not secular"	163
The Angel of History	167

Part Two: Emmanuel Levinas 175

6. The Rupture of the Good	177
Levinas's Background	177
Reason-for-the Other: Sources for Levinas's Critique of Philosophy	181
Ontology and Violence: Ethics and Politics	188
Exteriority and Eschatology	195
7. The Trace, The Face, and, the Word of the Other	202
Time and the Other	202
Fecundity	205

The Face, the Trace, and the Ethical Relation	208
Language and the Face: Rosenzweig's Speech-Thinking	217
Subjectivity as Vulnerability: Language as Gift and Exposure	223
8. Parodic Play, Prophetic Reason, and Ethical Rhetoric: Derrida, Levinas, and Perelman	226
Derrida's Critique of Levinas	228
Skepticism and Philosophy	233
Rhetoric, Skepticism, and Violence: Levinas and Chaim Perelman	235
Philosophical Pairs and the Dissociation of Concepts	245
The Saying and the Said: A Subject of Flesh and Blood	250
Passivity: The Subject as Lung	259
9. GreekJew/JewGreek	263
"Here I Am"	265
The Witness and the Holocaust	271
The Holocaust: To Love the Torah More Than God	275
Ambiguous Revelation as Ethical Positivity	278
Inspiration, Revelation, and Exegesis	282
The Return of History	290
The Return of the Law	293
Levinas and Scholem: Mysticism, Myth, and Law	297
Ethics versus Aesthetics	303
10. Talmudic Messianism	306
Levinas's Talmudic Lectures: Interpretive Methodology	307
Anachronism and Historicism	315
Talmudic Messianism	319

Political Life or Moral Life; Redemption via Human or Nonhuman Action?	323
The Conditions for the Messiah: When Is the End of History?	325
Universal History and Its Ruptures	327
Who Is the Messiah?	330
History, Historicism, and Philosophy	332
The Possibility of a Modern Messianism	335
Conclusion: Before and beyond the Book	337
Revelation and Messianic Knowledge	338
Repairing the Broken Tablets	342
Notes	347
Works Consulted	365
Index	377