

CONTENTS

	Preface	vii
	Acknowledgements	viii
	List of abbreviations	x
1	What is ancient ethics?	1
	An ethics of virtue? 3
	A morality of happiness? 4
2	Plato and the pursuit of excellence	6
	Plato and his predecessors 6
	The quest for excellence 8
	Excellence, virtue, and happiness 11
	Excellence and knowledge 14
	Knowledge vs. rhetoric 17
	The dearth of knowledge 20
	Plato's indictment of the Golden Age 23
	Politics and justice in the Republic 24
	The norms of the polis 30
	Paideia: learning to be good 32
	Knowledge: understanding the good 35
	Virtue and external goods 38
3	Aristotle and the pursuit of happiness	50
	Happiness as the goal of life 51
	The choice of lives: EN I.5 and X.7–8 55
	The political life 56
	Philosophy in the political life 59
	The human function 62
	Ethical excellence 64
	The doctrine of the mean 66

Prohairesis	68
Voluntary action	70
The role of reason in ethical excellence	72
Intellectual activities and excellences	73
Universals and particulars	76
Reason, desire, and knowledge	79
Learning to be good	81
Responsibility for character	85
External goods	86
4 Epicurus and the life of pleasure	95
History, biography, and texts	95
Epicurean philosophy	97
The fourfold remedy	102
Pleasure and the virtues	116
Friendship	124
Hedonism and eudaimonism	126
5 The Stoics: following nature	134
The goal of life	135
Following nature	138
Natural law	140
Only the admirable is good	141
Virtue, happiness, and external goods	144
The good and the admirable	145
Goodness and value: the eclipse	147
No degrees of goodness	148
Nature and moral development	151
Aristo and the standard of choice	155
The passions	159
Epicureans vs. Stoics on the life without distress	170
Only the wise are free	171
Appendix 1 Freedom and what is ‘up to us’ in Stoicism	183
Appendix 2 Intellectual excellences in Aristotle’s Nicomachean Ethics	186
Bibliography	187
Index locorum	217
General index	234