

Table of Contents

	PAGE
CHAPTER 1: Introduction	I
1.1 The Intentionality thesis	5
1.2 Guide to the argument	14
 PART I SOME HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES	 23
CHAPTER 2: Locke: The 'Passive' Mind	25
2.1 Locke's passive view of mind	27
2.2 What is lacking in Locke's account	34
2.3 Resemblance and representation	42
2.4 Representation and apprehension of both relata	48
 CHAPTER 3: Passivity and Activity in Locke's Predecessors	 54
3.1 Aquinas' two modes of representation	55
3.2 Descartes' ambivalence between activity and passivity	67
3.3 Implications of activity/passivity for an account of representation	71
3.4 The role of representation in understanding reality	76
 PART II SIGNIFICATION	 79
CHAPTER 4: Semiotics: Saussure, Peirce, Piaget, Frege	81
4.1 Saussure's conception of 'signifier' and 'signified'	81
4.2 Peirce's 3-term signifying relation	87
4.3 Icon, index and symbol	92
4.4 Witting and unwitting use of signifiers	96
4.5 Piaget: symbol and signal	99
4.6 Summing up: Piaget, Peirce and Saussure	103
 CHAPTER 5: Disengagement (1): The Preparation	 106
5.1 The developmental stages	108
5.2 Assimilation and accommodation	111
5.3 Interiorisation: the gateway to possible worlds	120
 CHAPTER 6: Disengagement (2): The Semiotic Function	 123
6.1 From signal to symbol, via play and imitation	124

6.2	Examination of some of Piaget's claims	129
6.3	Signal to symbol: from bare reference to sense and reference	135
6.4	The text has a life of its own	142
6.5	Conclusion	145
PART III THE REPRESENTATIONAL ACT		147
CHAPTER 7: Representational Thought and Images		149
7.1	Active and passive senses of representation	149
7.1.1	Passive 'representative' items	149
7.1.2	Active representation	155
7.2	Images and representation	156
7.2.1	Problems in the Piaget-Furth analysis	156
7.2.2	Sartre's account of images	160
7.2.3	Resolution of Piaget-Furth problems	163
7.3	Images as signifiers	164
CHAPTER 8: Thinking With and Without Representation		167
8.1	Non-representational (animal) thinking	169
8.1.1	Can an animal belief be identified with a brain state?	170
8.1.2	Can an animal belief be identified with a mental state?	174
8.2	Representational thinking	178
8.2.1	Sartre's analysis of consciousness: reflected and unreflected thought	182
8.2.2	Pure and impure reflection	185
8.2.3	The function of the transcendent object	189
CHAPTER 9: Representation and Reality		193
9.1	Representation and 'mirroring'	195
9.2	'Seeing-as' and seeing 'what really exists'	198
9.3	Those elusive 'things in themselves'	203
9.4	Two senses of 'reality'	210
9.5	Disengagement and reality	215
9.6	Representation is internal to reality	218
9.7	Postscript	223
SELECT BIBLIOGRAPHY		226
INDEX		231