

Contents

Boxes and Sidebars	ix
Acknowledgments	x
Introduction	1

Section One The problem

1 What's the problem?.....	7
2 What is it like to be . . . ?.....	22
3 What does consciousness do?.....	36

Section Two The world

4 Attention and timing	51
5 The theater of the mind	64
6 The grand illusion	78

Section Three The self

7 Egos, bundles and multiple selves.....	94
8 Theories of self.....	109
9 Agency and free will.....	123

Section Four Evolution

10 The evolution of consciousness	139
11 The function of consciousness.....	152
12 Animal minds.....	166

Section Five Artificial consciousness

13 Minds and machines	181
14 Could a machine be conscious?	197
15 How to build a conscious machine	211

Section Six The brain

16 The neural correlates of consciousness	226
17 The unity of consciousness	242
18 Damaged brains	257

Section Seven Borderlands

19 Unconscious processing	272
20 The paranormal	288
21 Reality and imagination	304

Section Eight Altered states of consciousness

22 Drugs and altered states	321
23 Sleep, dreams and hypnotic states	338
24 Exceptional human experience	354

Section Nine First-person approaches

25 The view from within	370
26 Meditation and mindfulness	385
27 Buddhism and consciousness	401
References	415
Index	443