

Table of contents

Preface ix

CHAPTER 1

On sensory consciousness 1

- 1.1 Caging the beast 7
- 1.2 Internal sense: A good trap 17
- 1.3 Second sense: A better trap 21
- 1.4 Purely verbal? 25

CHAPTER 2

On higher-order theories of consciousness 31

- 2.1 The higher-order explanation of state consciousness 32
  - 2.1.A Higher-order thought theory 32
  - 2.1.B Objections to the higher-order thought theory or playing the shell game 38
  - 2.1.C Higher-order perception theory 44
  - 2.1.D Objections to the higher-order perception theory 46
- 2.2 Formulating an alternative: A flat theory of sensory consciousness 52
  - 2.2.A Dretske's trouble spot 54
  - 2.2.B Spot-sight and thimble-seeking 59
- 2.3 Conclusion 63

CHAPTER 3

Solving the problem of Spot-sight 65

- 3.1 Coordinating sensory consciousness 66
  - 3.1.A The best approximation of the world 73
  - 3.1.B Representing 'now' 75
  - 3.1.C Decision and action 81
- 3.2 What good is a second sense? 86
- 3.3 Spot-sight again 95

CHAPTER 4

Subjectivity 99

- 4.1 Subjective authority 101
- 4.2 Special facts or special access? 105
  - 4.2.A On what it's like 105
  - 4.2.B Nagel's funny facts 106
  - 4.2.C Point of view provides a special route, not special facts 109
- 4.3 Subjectivity as the view from here 110
  - 4.3.A Tokens in a language of thought 110
  - 4.3.B The reciprocity of subject and object 114
  - 4.3.C Egocentric maps 116
- 4.4 Deflating (and re-inflating) subjectivity 120

CHAPTER 5

Testing the theory 123

- 5.1 Troubles with functionalism 123
  - 5.1.A Chauvinism 124
  - 5.1.B Liberalism 125
- 5.2 The hard problem 128
- 5.3 On Rosenthal 132
- 5.4 Dealing with Dennett 135
  - 5.4.A The Camera Obscura argument 135
  - 5.4.B The bizarre category of the objectively subjective 138

APPENDIX

A Speculative Hypothesis 141

- A.1 Attention as the coordination of sensory representations 142
- A.2 Locating sensory consciousness 145
  - A.2.A Many senses or one? 146
  - A.2.B Looking for the second sense 148
  - A.2.C A home for conscious sensory states 152

Notes 157

References 169

Index 179