

Contents

Illustrations	ix
Preface	xi
Introduction	1
1. Integral Culture: Louis Marin and the Conservative School, 1890–1940	12
2. The Seductions of the Picturesque and the Irresistible Magic of Art	51
3. Frenchmen into Peasants: Rerooting the Vietnamese in Their Villages	98
4. Identity Conflicts: Folklore and the National Heritage	135
5. True France or . . . ? : Fulfillment and Disruption	162
Conclusion	189
Bibliographical Essay	205
Index	211

Illustrations

1. Map of the International Colonial Exposition, Paris, 1931	58
2. View from a tower of Angkor Wat	60
3. View from a tower of Notre Dame de Paris	61
4. Emperor Bao Dai of Annam, Albert Sarraut, and Governor General Pierre Pasquier	65
5. Motorcade passing before honor guards	66
6. Inauguration of the exposition in the Great Hall of the Colonial Museum	68
7. La Porte de Picpus, main entrance to the exposition grounds	69
8. The Madagascar pavilion	72
9. Two representations of women in the colonies	75
10. Policemen watch an artist painting Angkor Wat	77
11. Interior courtyard of Angkor Wat	78
12. The French West Africa pavilion	79
13. Tourists crowd into a boutique on a typical Sudanese street	80
14. Members of the Senegalese Rifles take French lessons in their off-duty hours	82
15. The confrontation of the dynamo and camel power	88
16. Building the city: the Cameroons and Togo and a Paris scene	89

17. Money fetishism and the New Hebrides style	90
18. Visitors stand before the machines in the pavilion of metropolitan France	91
19. The Fountain of Totems	95
20. Angkor Wat illuminated by colored lights	95
21. The ruins of Angkor Wat, Cambodia	96
22. The surrealists' display of "European fetishes"	108
23. A display at the surrealists' antiexposition	109
24. Joan of Arc inspires Marshal Pétain and French youth	174