

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
Preface. . . . .	ii
 INTRODUCTION
i    Identification of the Mercury myth . . . . .	1
ii   Representations of Mercury in Renaissance mythography. . . . .	5
iii  Critical reception of Ronsard's use of myth and contemporary critical criteria for reading myth and the imitation . . . . .	21
 CHAPTER I. Ronsard's Mercury: From imitation to a figure for eloquence. . . . .
1    The Franciade , "Hymne Triumphal" . . . . .	29
2    "A Mercure". . . . .	46
3    Political encomia. . . . .	59
 CHAPTER II. Reading the Mercury myth. . . . .
1    "Epistre à Ambroise de la Porte parisien" . . . . .	71
2    "Hymne de l'hyver". . . . .	77
3    "A sa lyre" . . . . .	86
 CHAPTER III. Ronsard's renewal of the myth: The worldly god evoked through periphrasis or the subject of a poem . . . . .
1    "La Victoire de François de Bourbon" . . . . .	97
2    "Hymne de la Philosophie". . . . .	100
3    "Hymne de Mercure" . . . . .	104
 CONCLUSION . . . . .
Bibliography . . . . .	121
Appendices . . . . .	127
	135