

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS IX

CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION 1

- Three Traditions 1
- Four Philosophical Psychologies 10
- Self-Knowledge in Literature and Drama 21
- Zasetsky 26

CHAPTER 2: APPROACHES TO THE SELF 31

- Judgment Day 32
- Personality Profiles 37
- Self-Concepts 45
- The Storied Self 47
- The Somatic Sense of Self 55
- The Self in Question 57

CHAPTER 3: SELF-DETACHMENT AND SELF-KNOWLEDGE 59

- Transparency 59
- Reflective Detachment 63
- Alternative Self-Descriptions 66
- Freedom, Self-Awareness, and Moral Responsibility 70
- Detachment Revisited 76

CHAPTER 4: A MYSTERY IN BROAD DAYLIGHT 81

- Identity and "Being in Question" 81
The Fundamental Project 86
The Radical Choice of Self 90
Self-Knowledge and the Fundamental Project 93
Autobiographical Blind Spots 99
A "Founded Mode of Being" 104

CHAPTER 5: "THE MAN WITHOUT QUALITIES": IRONY, CONTINGENCY, AND THE LIGHTNESS OF BEING 109

- The Self "Well Lost" 109
Ironism and Self-Enlargement 117
Authenticity and Self-Purification 121
The Most Disenchanted of Sciences 124
Playing with Identity 127
The Lightness of Being in Time 131
Radical Choice Revisited 133

CHAPTER 6: DIALOGIC SELF-KNOWING 135

- Solitary Selves 135
Like-Minded Communities 139
Consensus and Intersubjective Validation 142
Dialogic Encounter 152

NOTES 167BIBLIOGRAPHY 181*INDEX 189