

CONTENTS

Foreword .....	ix
List of Illustrations .....	xi
List of Abbreviations and Archive Names .....	xiii
I. Historical Research on Reading and Writing: From Book
Ownership to the Use of Media .....	1
The history of reading .....	5
The history of reading as a research field .....	7
A different perspective: Reading within the framework of media history .....	10
Research on historical readers .....	15
Research on historical reading behaviour .....	25
Egodocuments as source material .....	32
Structure of the book .....	38
II. Mirror of Literacy: Reading and Writing in the Diary (1624) of David Beck .....		41
A German schoolmaster in the Dutch Republic .....	43
'Mirror of my life' .....	45
The conversation of the day .....	49
Writing habits .....	54
Conversation at a distance: correspondence .....	55
Writing at school .....	60
Income and expenditure in writing .....	64
Paper poetry: the oeuvre of the poet David Beck .....	65
Writing poetry and everyday life .....	69
Publication in manuscript form .....	72
'Mousing and rummaging': Beck's reading behaviour .....	76
Handwritten reading .....	77
Poetic taste: Beck's reading of printed texts .....	79
Aging French poems and topical Dutch prose .....	84
Beck's books in other sources .....	86
'Nosing around' in bookshops or at the Binnenhof .....	89
Books in everyday life .....	93

Diverse ways of reading .....	99
Reading in order to write .....	105
Final remarks .....	109
III. Aristocratic Literacy: Pieter Teding van Berkhout and his 'Journal' (1669–1712) .....	113
The life of a gentleman of rank .....	115
'Journal contentant mes occupations' .....	120
The aristocratisation of everyday conversation? .....	126
Putting pen to paper .....	131
Written contacts: correspondence and writing style .....	132
Writing and family history .....	136
Political notes .....	139
A lifetime of reading .....	142
Teding van Berkhout's library .....	142
A historical taste .....	145
Reading à la mode .....	153
An unusual taste? .....	155
Purchases and gifts .....	160
The delights of country life .....	164
Reading a book .....	169
Reading for edification and entertainment .....	179
Final remarks .....	185
IV. Aural and Eyewitness Testimony: Reading, Writing, and Discussions of Current Affairs in Jan de Boer's chronological journal (1747–1758) .....	189
The life of an Amsterdam clerk .....	191
The diary or 'journal' of Jan de Boer .....	196
Historiography of the news .....	204
The flow of information: De Boer's news sources .....	208
News in the street .....	209
News on printed paper .....	214
The news of 1755 .....	217
News from many sides .....	219
Reading the news: printed matter in the diary .....	222
Newspapers .....	225
Newspaper reports in the diary .....	229
Information and discussion in pamphlets .....	234
News in pamphlets .....	237

‘Only an oortje’: the distribution of pamphlets .....	241
The anonymous author of the pamphlet ‘Pro Patria’ .....	247
Pamphlet readers and their responses .....	251
Other informative publications: ordinances, periodicals and prints .....	256
News as history .....	260
Final remarks .....	262
V. A Devout Reader and Writer: Literacy in Jacoba van Thiel’s ‘Account-Book of the Soul’ (1767–1770) .....	265
A life lived amid the clergy .....	267
Daily register or ‘account-book of the soul’ .....	272
Pious conversation .....	281
A devout Christian woman with a pen .....	288
Pious correspondence .....	289
‘Somewhat free from the earth’: on keeping a diary .....	293
Piety with books: Van Thiel’s reading .....	297
A religious glutton .....	297
Old or new? .....	305
Readers of pious literature and readers of novels .....	307
The parsonage library .....	310
Relatives and women in Luchtmans’ shop .....	315
Purchases and gifts .....	317
Reading and the daily struggle .....	319
Daily books: Van Thiel’s modes of reading .....	323
Nourishing the soul .....	332
Final remarks .....	338
VI. Literacy in Everyday Life .....	341
Speech, writing and reading .....	342
Forms of reading behaviour .....	344
Appendix I: Reading Behaviour in Figures .....	349
Appendix II: Titles of Books Mentioned in the Diaries .....	355
List of Sources .....	381
Bibliography .....	387
Index .....	415