Contents

Publishers' Note vii
Series Editor's Preface ix
Acknowledgments xi
Abbreviations xiii

Introduction 1

1 Early Jesuit Ministries 13

Ministries in the Jesuit Formula Instituti 14

The Consolatory Character of Jesuit Ministries 17

Frequent Confession and Communion 19

Preaching and the Call to Confess 24

Female Penitents 26

Spiritual Exercises and the General Confession 30

Jesuit Penitential Literature 32

2 "What has Athens to do with Jerusalem?" 49

Jesuit Ethics before the Revolution of Probabilism 49

The First Jesuit Manual for Confessors 49

Authorship of the Directory 52

The Medieval Tutorism of the Directory 56

The Role of Opinions in the Directory and Later Jesuit Manuals for Confessors 59

The Medieval Tutoristic Background of the Directory 65

Early Jesuit Tutorism Beyond the Directory 71

Re-definition of the Jesuits 75

Early Jesuit Embryonic Probablism 79
3  “Christian Virtue and Excellence in Ciceronian Eloquence”
The Jesuit Literary Renaissance and Adoption of Probabilism 83

Lectures on Cases of Conscience in the Ratio Studiorum 84

Classical Rhetoric in the Ratio and Jesuit Ciceronianism 88

Ciceronian Probability 97

Pedro Perpiñan and the Jesuit Rhetoric at the Roman College 101

4  The Genealogy of Jesuit Probabilism 107

Medina’s Revolutionary Ethical Solution 114

Gabriel Vázquez—the First Jesuit Probabilist 119

Francisco Suárez and the Reflex Principles 123

5  Probabilism as the Spiritual Sodom: Jansenist Attack
Against Jesuit Ethics 127

Blaise Pascal’s Road to Port-Royal des Champs 127

French Jansenism 129

The Provincial Letters as a Political Invective 131

Tirso González de Santalla and Jesuit Probabilitiorism 134

Conclusion 145

Bibliography 149
Index 163