

CONTENTS

PREFACE

ix

1 INTRODUCTION: PSYCHOLOGY, PHILOSOPHY OF SCIENCE, AND HISTORY

1

- Understanding Psychology 2
- Understanding Science 3
  - Methodological Approaches 4
  - Naturalistic Approaches 12
  - Neomethodological Approaches 21
  - Realism 23
  - Pragmatism 26
- Psychology and Science 26
  - The Newtonian Fantasy 26
  - Psychology as a Life Science 27
  - Psychology and the Humanities 29
- Understanding History 30
  - Historiography of Psychology 34

PART ONE FOUNDING SCIENTIFIC PSYCHOLOGY

2 THE PSYCHOLOGY OF CONSCIOUSNESS

39

- Introduction: Founding Psychology 40
  - Paths to Scientific Psychology 40
  - The Foundings 42
- Foundation Stones 43
  - Experimental Research Methods 43
  - Integration of Philosophy of Mind and Neurophysiology 46
- Wilhelm Wundt (1832–1920) and Ganzheit Psychology 52
  - Life 52
  - Wundt's Psychology 55
- Edward Bradford Titchener (1887–1927) and Structuralism 61
  - Life 62
  - Structural Psychology 63

Challenges to the Analytic Psychology of Consciousness 65
    The Psychology of Thinking: The Würzburg School
        (1901–1909) 65
    Against Atomism: The Gestalt Movement 69
    Act Psychology: Franz Brentano (1878–1917) 73
Conclusion: The Fate of the Psychology of Consciousness 74

3 THE PSYCHOLOGY OF THE UNCONSCIOUS MIND: SIGMUND FREUD AND PSYCHOANALYSIS 80

Foundation Stones 81
    The Unconscious 82
    The Instincts 83
    Social Context 86
    Life 88
The Development of Psychoanalysis 89
    Genesis of Psychoanalysis (1895–1899) 89
    Defining Psychoanalysis (1900–1920) 93
    Revision, Systematization, and Cultural Analysis (1920–1939) 99
Conclusions 103
    Freud and Psychoanalysis 103
    The Reception of Psychoanalysis 104

4 THE PSYCHOLOGY OF ADAPTATION (1855–1891) 109

Foundation Stones 110
    The Darwinian Revolution 110
    Evolutionary Psychology 116
    Comparative Psychology 122
Psychology in the New World 125
    Background 125
    America's Native Philosophy: Pragmatism 130
    Pragmatism Becomes Psychology 132
    The New Psychology 135
Perception and Thinking Are Only There for Behavior's Sake 136

PART TWO THE CONSPIRACY OF NATURALISM (1892–1912)

5 THE UTILITY OF CONSCIOUSNESS: THE RISE
OF FUNCTIONAL PSYCHOLOGY (1892–1898) 140

The Conspiracy of Naturalism (1892–1912) 141
Introduction 141

Mentalism and Behaviorism 142
 Psychology and Society 143
 James and Pragmatism 149

Building on The Principles: The Motor Theory of Consciousness (1892–1896) 152

Hugo Münsterberg and Action Theory 152
 John Dewey and the Reflex Arc 154

From Philosophy to Biology: Functional
 Psychology (1896–1898) 155

Experiments Become Functional 155
 Functional Psychology Defined 158

6 FROM CONSCIOUSNESS TO BEHAVIOR: BEHAVIORALISM DISCOVERED (1898–1912)

160

The Triumph of Functional Psychology (1898–1906) 161

From Undercurrent to Main Current 161
 Functional Psychology in Europe 165

New Directions in Animal Psychology (1898–1909) 167

From Anecdote to Experiment 167
 The Problem of Animal Mind 174

Rethinking Mind: The Consciousness Debate (1904–1912) 176

Does Consciousness Exist? Radical Empiricism 176
 The Relational Theory of Consciousness: Neorealism 177
 The Functional Theory of Consciousness: Instrumentalism 181

Marked for Slaughter: Discarding Consciousness (1910–1912) 182

PART THREE PSYCHOLOGY TAKES OFF (1913–1950)

7 THE GOLDEN AGE OF THEORY: THE BEHAVIORIST ERA

188

Psychology Takes Off (1913–1950) 189

Developing Behaviorism (1913–1930) 189

Behaviorism Proclaimed 189
 The Initial Response (1913–1918) 193
 Behaviorism Defined (1919–1930) 196

Major Formulations of Behaviorism (1930–1950) 201

Psychology and the Science of Science 202
 Edward Chace Tolman's Purposive Behaviorism 205
 Clark Leonard Hull's Mechanistic Behaviorism 209
 Tolman versus Hull 213

We're All Behaviorists Now 217

8 APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY AND THE PROBLEMS OF SOCIETY: PSYCHOLOGISTS IN SOCIAL CONTROVERSY 221

- Introduction 222
- Founding Applied Psychology 223
- The Uses of Intelligence Testing 225
  - Psychology Enters Public Consciousness: Psychologists in the Great War 225
  - Is America Safe for Democracy? Impact of Army Intelligence Testing 227
  - Making America Safe for Democracy: Immigration Control and Eugenics 230
- Psychology and Everyday Life 236
  - Psychologists at Work 236
  - When Psychology Was King 238
  - Flaming Youth and the Reconstruction of the Family 243

9 RESHAPING PSYCHOLOGY: PSYCHOLOGISTS IN PROFESSIONAL CONTROVERSY 249

- Tension Between Academic and Applied Psychology 250
  - Divorce: Clinicians Walk Out 250
  - Reconciliation in the Crucible of World War II 251
  - Inventing Clinical Psychology 254
- Optimism in the Aftermath of War 257
  - Contending for Respectability and Money at the Dawn of Big Science 257
  - Psychologists Look Ahead to the Psychological Society 259
  - Values and Adjustment 260

PART FOUR ECLECTIC PSYCHOLOGY: THE 1950s

10 BEHAVIORISM'S INDIAN SUMMER: AFTER THE GOLDEN AGE 265

- Eclectic Psychology: The 1950s 266
- Troubles with Behaviorism 266
  - Philosophical Behaviorism 267
  - Are Theories of Learning Adequate? 273
- Are Theories of Learning Necessary? Radical Behaviorism 275
  - Radical Behaviorism 275
  - The Experimental Analysis of Behavior 277
  - Interpreting Human Behavior 282

11 SEEDS OF CHANGE: TOWARD COGNITIVE SCIENCE AND SOCIAL UNREST	288
Informal Behaviorism	289
Early Theories in Cognitive Psychology	291
Genetic Epistemology	291
Cognitive Dissonance	292
The “New Look” in Perception	293
The Study of Thinking	294
The Mechanization of Thought	295
Artificial Intelligence	295
Simulating Thought	298
Psychology and Society	301
PART FIVE YEARS OF TURMOIL (1959–1970)
12 DOUBT AND CHALLENGE: BEHAVIORISM UNDER FIRE	307
Years of Turmoil (1959–1970)	308
Challenges to Behaviorism	308
Humanistic Psychology	308
Cartesian Linguistics	310
Erosion of the Foundations	316
The Disappearance of Positivism	316
Constraints on Animal Learning	317
Awareness and Human Learning	320
13 CONTINUITY IN CHANGE: “REVOLUTIONS” IN PSYCHOLOGY AND SOCIETY	324
The Cognitive “Revolution”	325
The New Structuralism	325
The New Mentalism	326
Man the Machine: Information Processing	327
The Social “Revolution”	330
Funding Social Science	330
Professional Psychology	332
Values	333
Conclusion: Revolts but No Revolutions	338
From Yippie to Yuppie	338
From Mediation to Information Processing	346

PART SIX CONTEMPORARY PSYCHOLOGY (1970–PRESENT)

14 COGNITIVE SCIENCE: FROM TRIUMPH TO TROUBLE 345

Contemporary Psychology (1970–Present) 346

Cognitive Science 346

The Triumph of Information Processing 346

The New Functionalism 349

Doubts About Cognitive Science 355

Is Information Processing a Paradigm? 356

Was There a Revolution? 358

Is the Turing Test Valid? 362

Is Formalism Plausible? 363

Conclusion 365

The New Connectionism 366

15 PSYCHOLOGY DIVIDED, PSYCHOLOGY ASCENDANT: AN UNCERTAIN FIELD IN A PSYCHOLOGICAL LAND 372

The Strange Death of Radical Behaviorism 373

Beyond Freedom and Dignity 373

Critique of Cognitive Science 375

Challenges to Psychology as Science 377

From Psychology's Occult Doubles 377

From Biology 380

From the Humanities 384

Professional Controversies 386

Clinical Psychology 386

Divorced Again: Academics Walk Out 389

Psychology and Society 390

Giving Psychology Away 390

The Turn to Service 392

Our Psychological Society 394

INDEX 401