
Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
John Steiner

Part One: Clinical psychoanalysis

1 On the clinical usefulness of the concept of the death instinct	17
2 Phantasy and reality	27
3 On symbolism	41
4 A delusional system as a defence against the re-emergence of a catastrophic situation	49
5 Early infantile development as reflected in the psychoanalytical process: steps in integration	64
6 Some clinical implications of Melanie Klein's work: emergence from narcissism	75
7 The Oedipus complex today	86
8 Paranoid anxiety and paranoia	95
9 Termination: sweating it out	103
10 The uses and abuses of counter-transference	111

Part Two: Literature and politics

11 Joseph Conrad and the mid-life crisis	123
--	-----

12	Salman Rushdie and the sea of stories; a not-so-simple fable about creativity	133
13	Silence is the real crime	143
14	From Hiroshima to the Gulf War and after: socio-political expressions of ambivalence	157
	References	169
	Name index	173
	Subject index	175