

CONTENTS

PART 1 THE PREDICTION OF HUMAN BEHAVIOR

Chapter 1 The Basic Prediction Model and Its Applications

Correlational analysis	7
Regression and prediction	13
Suppressor variables	30
The prediction paradigm in personality assessment	39
Summary	49

Chapter 2 Alternative Prediction Models:

I. Moderator Variables and Higher-Order Functions

Moderator variables	51
The prediction of predictability	61
Higher-order functions	74
Summary	77

Chapter 3 Alternative Prediction Models:

II. Contingency Tables and Actuarial Prediction

Insurance rates and actuarial prediction	81
Actuarial prediction in psychology	83
Special requirements of actuarial prediction	90
Some actuarial prediction systems	110
Summary	118

Chapter 4 Clinical Prediction

Judgmental measurement	122
Clinical prediction	142
Summary	179

Chapter 5	Clinical Versus Statistical Prediction
	Comparison of clinical and statistical prediction	181
	Automated clinical prediction	199
	Summary	221
Chapter 6	The Outcomes of Prediction: Personnel Decisions in Selection, Multiple Selection, and Classification
	Decision theory and personnel assignment	224
	Selection, multiple selection, and classification	230
	Classical validity	232
	Discriminative efficiency	240
	Maximizing the expected utilities of personnel decision strategies	257
	Summary	272

PART 2 TECHNIQUES OF DATA COLLECTION IN PERSONALITY ASSESSMENT

Chapter 7	Observational Techniques:
	I. Generalizability and Facets of Observation
	Reliability of observation	278
	Facets of observation	295
	Summary	326

Chapter 8	Observational Techniques:
	II. Trait Attribution and Behavioral Analysis
	Trait attribution	328
	Behavioral analysis	363
	Summary	377

Chapter 9	Structured Techniques
	What is a structured test?	380
	What is the meaning of a response to a structured test?.	382
	Content versus style in structured tests	415
	Components of variance in structured personality tests	425
	Summary	439

PART 3 THE PRACTICE OF PERSONALITY ASSESSMENT

Chapter 10	Models and Strategies in Personality Assessment
	The nature of personality theory	443
	Personality theories as assessment models	454
	Summary	512

Chapter 11 Some Representative Assessment Programs

Early methods of selection and appraisal	515
American milestone studies	519
Summary	601
References	605
Author Index	I-1
Subject Index	I-11