

Contents

Preface	vii
1 Why Measurement Is Fundamental	1
2 Important Principles of Measurement Made Explicit	9
3 Basic Principles of the Rasch Model	20
4 Building a Set of Items for Measurement	36
5 Test Equating: Can Two Tests Measure the Same Ability?	52
6 Measurement Using Likert Scales	66
7 The Partial Credit Rasch Model	88
8 Measuring Facets Beyond Ability and Difficulty	106
9 Revealing Stage-Based Development	119
10 The Rasch Model Applied Across the Human Sciences	139

11	Rasch Modeling Applied: Rating Scale Design	158
12	The Question of Model Fit	173
13	A Synthetic Overview	187
	Appendix A: Technical Aspects of the Rasch Model	199
	Appendix B: Rasch Resources	210
	Glossary	229
	References	235