Preface vii

PART I—INTRODUCTION

Chapter 1

The Cognitive Approach 3

PART II—VISUAL COGNITION

Chapter 2

Iconic Storage and Verbal Coding 15

Transient iconic memory—Backward masking—Effects of a masked stimulus—Verbal coding—Perceptual set as a coding variable—The span of apprehension—Ease of coding

Chapter 3

Pattern Recognition 46

The nature of the problem—Displacement and rotation—Ill-defined categories and expectancies—Template matching—Decision time and visual search—A simple feature-analyzing model—Features and parts

Chapter 4

Focal Attention and Figural Synthesis 86

Focal attention—Preattentive control—Figural synthesis—Familiarity—Search and reaction times again—Analysis-by-synthesis—Two theoretical summaries

Chapter 5

Words as Visual Patterns 105

The word-apprehension effect—Spelling patterns—Figural synthesis of words—The fragment theories—The distinction between perception and response—The effect of repeated exposures—Perceptual defense—Subception—Reading for meaning

Chapter 6

Visual Memory 138

Visual snapshots and their integration—Visual imagery and visual synthesis—Dreaming and related states—The functions of imagery—The experimental control of dreaming—Special kinds of imagery: drugs, schizophrenia, hypnosis—Electrically induced imagery, and other evidence for "hypermnesia"

PART III—AUDITORY COGNITION

Chapter 7

Speech Perception 173

Some very elementary acoustics—Auditory mechanisms—Phonemic description—Segmentation—Theories of speech perception—The analysis-by-synthesis of speech

Chapter 8

Echoic Memory and Auditory Attention 199

Echoic memory—The shadowing experiments—The filter theory—The filter-amplitude theory—Attention as auditory synthesis

Chapter 9

Active Verbal Memory 219

Recoding—Auditory characteristics of verbal memory—Slots or associations?—Rhythm and structure in auditory memory—Decay vs. interference—Two kinds of memory or one?

Chapter 10

Sentences 243

Linguistics and Gestalt psychology—Grammatical structure: general considerations—Phrase-structure grammars—Cues to phrase structure—Transformational grammar

PART IV—THE HIGHER MENTAL PROCESSES

Chapter 11

A Cognitive Approach to Memory and Thought 279

The Reappearance Hypothesis—The Utilization Hypothesis —Cognitive structures—The problem of the executive—The multiplicity of thought—Primary and secondary processes reconsidered—A summing up
