

Contents

Abbreviations for Frequently Cited Works	ix
Preface	xi
1. Agency and Identity	1
1.1 Necessitation	1
1.2 Acts and Actions	8
1.3 Aristotle and Kant	14
1.4 Agency and Practical Identity	18
2. The Metaphysics of Normativity	27
2.1 Constitutive Standards	27
2.2 The Constitution of Life	35
2.3 In Defense of Teleology	37
2.4 The Paradox of Self-Constitution	41
3. Formal and Substantive Principles of Reason	45
3.1 Formal versus Substantive	45
3.2 Testing versus Weighing	49
3.3 Maximizing and Prudence	52
4. Practical Reason and the Unity of the Will	59
4.1 The Empiricist Account of Normativity	59
4.2 The Rationalist Account of Normativity	64
4.3 Kant on the Hypothetical Imperative	68
4.4 Against Particularistic Willing	72
4.5 Deciding and Predicting	76
5. Autonomy and Efficacy	81
5.1 The Function of Action	81
5.2 The Possibility of Agency	84
5.3 Non-Rational Action	90
5.4 Action	93
5.5 Attribution	100
5.6 The Psychology of Action	104

6. Expulsion from the Garden: The Transition to Humanity	109
6.1 Instinct, Emotion, Intelligence, and Reason	109
6.2 The Parts of the Soul	117
6.3 Inside or Outside?	122
6.4 Pull Yourself Together	125
7. The Constitutional Model	133
7.1 Two Models of the Soul	133
7.2 The City and the Soul	135
7.3 Platonic Virtues	142
7.4 Justice: Substantive, Procedural, and Platonic	148
7.5 Kant and the Constitutional Model	153
8. Defective Action	159
8.1 The Problem of Bad Action	159
8.2 Being Governed by the Wrong Law	161
8.3 Four or Five Bad Constitutions	165
8.4 Conceptions of Evil	170
8.5 Degrees of Action	174
9. Integrity and Interaction	177
9.1 Deciding to be Bad	177
9.2 The Ordinary Cases	180
9.3 Dealing with the Disunified	184
9.4 Kant's Theory of Interaction	188
9.5 My Reasons	197
9.6 Deciding to Treat Someone as an End in Himself	200
9.7 Interacting with Yourself	202
10. How to be a Person	207
10.1 What's Left of Me?	207
10.2 Conclusion	212
Bibliography	215
Index	219