

CONTENTS

|                 |    |
|-----------------|----|
| Acknowledgement | xi |
|-----------------|----|

PART I
WILLIAM OF CONCHES' GLOSAE SVPER BOETIVM: STUDY AND TEXT

A. THE GLOSAE SVPER BOETIVM:
METHOD AND CONTENTS

|   |        |
|---|--------|
| Introduction  | xv     |
| 1. The author; chronology; date; authenticity; title  | xx     |
| 2. Method of glossing   |        |
| (i) Characteristics of the glosa   | xxiii  |
| (ii) A 'Chartrian' conception of the glosa ? Some criticisms   | xxvi   |
| 3. Hermeneutic approaches   |        |
| (i) General remarks   | xxx    |
| (ii) 'Integumental' readings  | xxxiii |
| (iii) Preexistence of the soul and knowledge throughrecollection  | xxxvi  |
| 4. The early development of William's natural philosophy:from the Glosae super Boetium to the Philosophia |        |
| (i) Some aspects of William's natural philosophy  | xl     |
| (ii) A comparison between the Glosae and the Philosophia  | xlii   |
| a. Tides and winds  | xlili  |
| b. Eclipse of the moon  | xliv   |
| c. The brain  | xliv   |
| d. The enfolding of the cosmos and the generation of life   | xlv    |
| e. 'Cold moon'  | xlvi   |
| f. Wandering planets  | xlxi   |
| g. Thunder and lightning  | l      |
| h. The elements   | lii    |
| (iii) Conclusion  | lvii   |
| 5. Three notes on some other philosophical themes   |        |
| (i) Free will and divine providence   | lix    |
| (ii) Universals   | lxvi   |
| (iii) Human actions   | lxix   |
| Conclusion  | lxxiii |

B. THE TEXT

|  |         |
|--|---------|
| 6. ‘Conchian’ material in Boethian manuscripts                       |         |
| (i) Glosses  | lxxvi   |
| (ii) Extracts  | lxxviii |
| (iii) Compilations   | lxxviii |
| (iv) The thirteenth-century redaction (Pseudo-William)               | lxxix   |
| (v) The marginal commentary in manuscripts of Jean de Meun           | lxxxi   |
| (vi) The ‘Commentum Lincolniensis’                                   | lxxxi   |
| 7. Description of the manuscripts of the Glosae super Boetium | lxxxii  |
| 8. On the text of the Glosae super Boetium                    |         |
| (i) One version  | cvi     |
| (ii) Interpolations  | cxi     |
| (iii) Interpolations in individual manuscripts                       | cxi     |
| (iv) Lacuna in Glosae , book IV                               | cxvi    |
| (v) The reference to a projected commentary on Macrobius             | cxxviii |
| 9. Guidelines for the edition  |         |
| (i) Constitution of the text   | cix     |
| (ii) Apparatus criticus                                       | cxxiv   |
| (iii) Orthography  | cxxvi   |
| (iv) Apparatus fontium  | cxxvii  |
| (v) The Latin text of the Consolatio                          | cxxviii |
| (vi) Abbreviations and explanations of signs usedin the edition  | cxxix   |
| Conspectus Siglorum  | cxxxii  |

THE EDITION

Guillelmi de Conchis Glosae super Boetium

|                  |     |
|------------------|-----|
| Liber I   | 1   |
| Liber II  | 96  |
| Liber III | 126 |
| Liber IV  | 215 |
| Liber V   | 286 |

PART II
STUDIES OF THE LATIN COMMENTARY TRADITION

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| Introduction   | 351 |
| 1. The Scholastic Context of the Boethius Commentaryby Nicholas Trevet (ca. 1300)                | 360 |
| (i) Trevet in modern scholarship   | 360 |
| (ii) Trevet and early Thomism at Oxford  | 365 |
| (iii) The soul and human cognition   | 368 |
| (iv) Free will   | 377 |
| (v) Divine attributes  | 383 |
| (vi) Conclusion  | 386 |
| 2. A Humanist Reading of the Consolatio : The Commentaryby Murnellius and Agricola (1514) | 389 |
| (i) The Consolatio in the later Middle Ages and Renaissance                                   | 389 |
| (ii) Life and works of Johannes Murnellius   | 391 |
| (iii) The ‘enarrationes autographas’ of Agricola   | 394 |
| (iv) Accessus and structure   | 396 |
| (v) Philological niceties  | 399 |
| (vi) Platonism and allegory  | 403 |
| (vii) ‘Studium duplex est: morum et litterarum’  | 406 |
| 3. Platonic and Cartesian Philosophy in the BoethiusCommentary by Pierre Cally (1680)            | 415 |
| (i) Pierre Cally and French Cartesianism   | 415 |
| (ii) ‘Seeds of truth’  | 422 |
| (iii) The creation of the universe   | 428 |
| (iv) Souls, spirits, and vortices  | 430 |
| Bibliography   | 439 |
| Index locorum S. Scripturae  | 451 |
| Fontes et similia  | 454 |