

Contents

List of Contributors ix

Preface xi

Introduction xiii

PART I LEARNING, DEVELOPMENT, AND COGNITIVE ABILITIES

Chapter 1 Conceptual Development during the School Years 5 Herbert J. Klausmeier

- A Model for the Attainment of Concepts 5
- Methods for Measuring and Describing Conceptual Development 14
- Principles of Conceptual Development 15
- Conjectures Regarding the Course of Conceptual Learning and Development 23
- References 27

Chapter 2 Intellectual Abilities and Learning: Retrospect and Prospect 31 Gisela Labouvie-Vief

- Abilities and Learning: Some General Considerations 33
- Relationships Between Abilities and Learning: Some Representative Research 38
- A Look into the Future 52
- References 56

Chapter 3 Children's Recognition Memory Processes 61 Elizabeth S. Ghatala and Joel R. Levin

- Reasons for Studying Children's Recognition Memory 61
- Nature of the Task 63

Frequency Theory	64
Review and Preview	67
Variables Influencing Children's Recognition Memory	68
Directions for Further Research and Implications for Education	89
References	97

PART II STRATEGIES FOR IMPROVING COGNITIVE LEARNING

Chapter 4 What Have We Learned about Maximizing What Children Learn? 105 Joel R. Levin

Pictures as Learning Materials	106
Visual Imagery as an Organizational Strategy	113
Inferred Cognitive Strategies: A Proposed Approach and Some Illustrations	126
Summary	129
References	130

Chapter 5 The Role of Metaphor and Analogy in Learning 135 Robert E. Davidson

Anecdotes from the History of Science	136
Two Conceptual Bases for Hypostatization	138
Experimental Investigations	141
Concluding Remarks	160
References	160

Chapter 6 Prerequisites for Learning to Read Richard L. Venezky

The Evolution of Reading Readiness	163
Prereading and Reading	165
Design of Prereading Skills Instruction	175
References	183

PART III STRATEGIES FOR IMPROVING CLASSROOM INSTRUCTION

Chapter 7 Instructional Design and the Teaching of Concepts 191 Herbert J. Klausmeier

Conducting a Concept Analysis	192
A Behavioral Analysis Pertaining to Concepts	203

An Instructional Analysis Pertaining to Concepts	204
Instructional Programming for the Individual Student	214
References	215

Chapter 8 Research and Development in Training Creative Thinking 219

Gary A. Davis

Creative Problem-Solving Model	220
Materials for Training Creative Thinking	230
References	239

Chapter 9 Children Helping Children:
Psychological Processes in Tutoring 241

Vernon L. Allen

Tutoring: Old and New	241
Theoretical Analysis	252
Field Studies of Tutoring	258
The Role of the Tutor	265
Tutor's Attributions about the Tutee	272
Role Skills in Tutoring: Nonverbal Behavior	276
Conclusions	286
References	288

Subject Index 291