Part One: Introduction to Instructional Systems

1. Introduction	3
Basic Assumptions about Instructional Design	4
Some Learning Principles	6
The Conditions of Learning	8
The Rationale for Instructional Design	14
What This Book Is About	16
Summary	18
References	18
2. Designing Instructional Systems	20
Instructional Design	21
Educational System Design	31
Summary	34
References	35

Part Two: Basic Processes in Learning and Instruction

3. The Outcomes of Instruction	39
Instruction and Educational Goals	39
Five Categories of Learning Outcomes	43
Designing Instruction Using Human Capabilities ..	50
Summary	50
References	52
4. Varieties of Learning: Intellectual Skills and Strategies	53
Types of Intellectual Skills	54
Cognitive Strategies	66
Metacognition	71
Varieties of Intellectual Skills in School Subjects ...	73
Summary	74
References	75
5. Varieties of Learning: Information, Attitudes, and Motor Skills	77
Verbal Information (Knowledge)	77
The Learning of Verbal Information	80

Attitudes	85
Motor Skills	92
Summary	95
References	97
6. The Learner	99
Learner Characteristics	100
Memory Organization	105
Schemas	106
Learners as Participants in Instruction	110
Summary	117
References	119

Part Three: Designing Instruction

7. Defining Performance Objectives	125
Achieving Precision in Objectives	126
Examples of Objectives	136
Using Objectives in Instructional Planning	141
Summary	143
References	144
8. Analysis of the Learning Task	145
Scope of the Analysis	146
Types of Task Analysis	147
Prerequisites in Learning Intellectual Skills	151
Learning-Task Analysis and Other Learning Types	156
Summary	162
References	163
9. Designing Instructional Sequences	165
An Example of Course Organization	167
Learning Hierarchies and Instructional Sequence	177
Integrating Multiple Objectives	179
Summary	183
References	183
10. The Events of Instruction	185
The Nature of Instruction	185
The Events of Instruction in a Lesson	200
Summary	202
References	203
11. Selecting and Using Media	205
Selection vs. Development of Media	205
Media and the Learning Situation	207
Media Selection Procedures	210
A Method of Media Selection	216

Summary	222
References	222
12. Designing the Individual Lesson	224
Lesson Planning and Module Design	225
Establishing a Sequence of Objectives	226
Lesson Planning for Learning Outcomes	234
Steps in Lesson Planning	237
Integrative Goals: Lesson Planning for Multiple Objectives	245
Roles and Activities in Instructional Development	251
Summary	252
References	252
13. Assessing Student Performance	254
Purposes of Performance Measures	255
Procedures for Objective-Referenced Assessment .	257
The Concept of Mastery	260
Criteria for Objective-Referenced Assessment	263
Norm-Referenced Measures	273
Summary	275
References	276

Part Four: Delivery Systems for Instruction

14. Group Instruction	281
Characteristics of Group Instruction	282
Instruction in the Two-Person Group	284
Instruction in the Small Group	288
Instruction in the Large Group	293
Features of Tutoring in Large Groups	297
Summary	299
References	300
15. Individualized Instruction	302
Nationally Diffused Systems	303
Locally Developed Systems	304
Varieties of Activities	305
Implementing Instructional Events	306
Systems for Older Students	309
Varieties of Individualized Instruction	310
Management of Individualized Instruction	311
Use of Materials in Individualized Instruction	316
Teacher Training for Individualized Instruction ...	322
Media Development for Individualized Instruction	326
Summary	327
References	329

16. Evaluating Instruction	331
Educational Evaluation	332
Evaluation of Instruction: Two Major Roles	335
Evaluation of Instructional Programs	340
Interpreting Evaluative Evidence	344
Examples of Evaluation Studies	348
Summary	355
References	355
Index	357
