

CONTENTS

1	Background and Foreground	1
1.1	The Wharton School Conflict Project	3
1.2	A Summary of the Propositions	4
2	The Output-Oriented Research Emphasis of the Systems Sciences	9
2.1	Operations Research: The Birth of the Systems Sciences	10
2.2	Refining Research Methods for the Systems Sciences	13
2.3	The Attraction of Behavioral Problems	15
2.4	Systems Science Methods Fail on Behavioral Problems	17
3	The Input-Oriented Needs for Behavioral Problems	25
3.1	The Difference Between Behavioral and Mechanistic Problems	26
3.2	The Behavioral Information a Model Must Provide	28
3.3	The Relation Between the Inputs to a Model and the Information It Provides	29
3.4	The Problems of an Output-Oriented Research Focus	32
3.5	The Results of an Input-Oriented Research Focus	32
4	A Strategy for Behavioral Research	35
4.1	The Requirements for Successful Behavioral Research	36
4.2	Research Experience from the Physical Sciences	38
4.3	The Disappointment with Behavioral Strategies	42
4.4	The Parameters of a Parsimonious Behavioral Research Strategy	45
5	Toward a Quantitative Theory of the Dynamics of Conflict	51
5.1	Initial Statement of Research Objectives	53
5.2	The Expanded Research Plan	54
5.3	A Summary of Related Research on the Project	59
6	A Research Strategy for Explaining Conflict Behavior	71
6.1	The Need for a Behavioral Model	72
6.2	Designing an Efficient Research Program	75
6.3	Segmentation of the Problem	77

6.4	External Influences on the Theory	79
7	An Explanation of the Statics of Conflict Behavior	87
7.1	The Progression of Static Perception Theories	90
7.2	Environmental Applications of the Generalized Role Reversal Theory	101
7.3	The Effect of Attitudes	107
7.4	Objective Measurement of Behavioral Variables	110
8	Toward an Explanation of the Dynamics of Conflict	117
8.1	Understanding the Dynamics of Behavior as a Basis for Control	118
8.2	Designing an Appropriate Conflict Environment	119
8.3	Incorporating the Effects of Playing Experience	124
8.4	Implications of the Dynamic Behavioral Theory	132
9	Analysis and Implications	137
9.1	Some Thoughts Based on the Conflict Research Experience	138
9.2	Translating the Methodology to Real-World Experimentation	139
9.3	Some Case Examples of Successful Behavioral Explanation	140
INDEX		145