

CONTENTS

SERIES EDITOR'S PREFACE	xi
PREFACE	xiii
1 Is there an unconscious?	1
Inner speech and the unconscious	4
Instinct and drive	5
Hypnosis	7
Dreams	9
Slips and mistakes in everyday life	13
Jokes	15
Art	18
Case histories	20
2 The unconscious in Freud and Lacan	24
The unconscious and childhood	25
Oedipus	28
Castration	30
Repression	31
Law, language and society	33
Freud and the unconscious	36
Lacan and the unconscious	40
Some qualifications	44
3 The unconscious and the 'I'	47
The ego	48
The Ego and the Id (1923)	55
Lacan's ego	58
Being in love	66

4	The unconscious and sexuality	70
	Oral and anal	72
	Oral, anal – and genital	74
	Masculinity	76
	Femininity	79
	Sexuality deflected	84
	Homosexuality	87
	Lacan: either being or meaning	89
	Need, demand, desire	92
	Sexuality in Lacan	97
5	The unconscious and the text	109
	Fantasy	110
	Dr No	111
	The pleasures of the signifier	112
	Author: Leonardo da Vinci	115
	Content of the fantasy	117
	Formal features	119
	Art and the reader	124
	Fantasy in Freud and Lacan	125
	Multiple identifications: being beaten	127
	Fantasy and pleasure in the text	129
	Psycho	130
6	The unconscious and history	135
	Universal human nature?	135
	Freud and history	137
	Freud and Leninism	141
	Possible reconciliations	142
	Lacan and history	150
	Psychoanalysis relative to history	152
	Lacan and vision	153
	The unconscious in groups and events	154

Happiness and human nature	162
Lacan and aggression	163
7 Conclusion: giving it all away	165
BIBLIOGRAPHY	172
INDEX	178