Preface 1
Abbreviations 5
Transliteration 21
1. Preliminaries 27
2. The Common Slavic phonemic system before the beginning of the formation of Ukrainian 51
3. Peculiarities of the Proto-Ukrainian dialects in the Common Slavic palatalizational processes 55
4. Consonantal clusters in the Proto-Ukrainian dialects 78
5. The differentiation of long and short vowels 82
6. Metathesis of liquids and pleophony 91
7. Restructuring of the prosodic system 104
8. The denasalization of the nasal vowels 132
9. The continuants of Common Slavic ě (ęă) and ĭ (> ь) after j in word-medial syllables and after postdentals 143
10. The loss of word-initial j before rounded vowels and its consequences 162
11. The status of palatalization of consonants before front vowels, and its development; the dispalatalization of l' and n' 171
12. The dispalatalization of r' 189
13. The treatment of ě 193
14. Bridging the periods, I: From Proto-Ukrainian to Old Ukrainian 202
15. The palatalization of velars before y 230
16. The loss of jers 237
17. The development of y, i, ъ, and ь adjacent to j 268
18. The development of jers followed by a sonant between two consonants (The sequences CъSC, CьSC) 285
19. Consequences of the loss of jers: the alternation v : u 294
20. Consequences of the loss of jers: the so-called new jat' 302
21. Consequences of the loss of jers: the treatment of o in the pre-weak-jer syllables 318
22. Consequences of the loss of jers: the treatment of e in the pre-weak-ъ syllables 323
23. Consequences of the loss of jers: rules for consonant clustering . . 335
24. Consequences of the loss of jers: the change of e into a in the sequence ije ~ ьje 344
25. Spirantization of g 349
26. The dispalatalization of preconsonantal and word-final labials . . . 360
27. The treatment of two-sonority-peak syllables 365
28. The coalescence of i and y 379
29. Bridging the periods, II: From Old Ukrainian to Early Middle Ukrainian 386

30. The labialization of l 411
31. The coalescence of i and y, 2. 422
32. The fronting of ė into i 425
33. The treatment of u^2 und 'u̇ 440
34. Prothetic consonants 447
35. The regularization of the syllable structure: two-sonority-peak syllables 461
36. The new rules in consonantal clusters (Middle Ukrainian and the outlook on subsequent developments) 476
37. Assimilation in the clusters consonant + j (The new gemination) . . 494
38. The dispalatalization of prevocalic labials 500
39. Vowel assimilations across the syllable boundary: o (e) and a . . . 507
40. The treatment of unstressed mid-vowels: e, y, and o 518
41. The dialectal umlaut a > e 541
42. The dispalatalization of postdentals 549
43. Bridging the periods, III: From Early Middle Ukrainian to Middle Ukrainian 557
44. The elimination of word-final two-sonority-peak syllables 590
45. The fronting and the delabialization of u_2 596
46. The expansion of i from 'u̇ 613
47. The status of palatalization in c' 619
48. The new consonants: g, ʒ, and f; the expansion of ǯ 623
49. The second dispalatalization of r'; dissimilations of r 636
50. Shifts in the consonantal alternations 642
51. The new o from e after dentals 647
52. Shifts and adjustments in the distribution of y 656
53. Truncations and contractions 670
54. The dialectal assimilative labialization of unrounded vowels 686
55. Changes in the palatalization of consonants and the intensification of consonantal clusters 687
56. Minor and dialectal developments in consonants 694
57. Bridging the periods, IV: From Middle Ukrainian to Late Middle and Modern Ukrainian 697
58. The elimination of word-medial two-sonority-peak syllables on morphemic boundaries 718
59. Shifts in the alternations o, e : i 721
60. Shifts in the consonantal alternations, 2. 735
61. Miscellaneous minor changes in consonants 739
62. In place of a summary 748
