

CONTENTS

	Pages
I. — INTRODUCTORY.
An analysis of Rabelais's work. A view of kindred literary types in England before his influence began to be felt. General aspects of the Renaissance.....	1
II. — THE BEGINNINGS.
The Gargantua of folk lore in England. The earliest traces of Rabelais. The philologists : Holyband, Cotgrave, John Eliot. Gabriel Harvey and Thomas Nashe. Sir John Harington. Robert Dallington.....	31
III. — FROM BISHOP HALL TO URQUHART.
The poets : Hall, Guilpin, Witaker, Dones (i. e. Donne ?), Coryat, Taylor, Donne, Jonson, Drayton, Hayman. The drama : Jonson, Lingua , Albumazar , Barnes, Webster, Shirley, Ford, Mayne. Prose : Lodge, Burton, Bacon, "Democritus Pseudomantis," certain anonymous prognostications, Hall, Browne, Howell.....	71
IV. — THE AGE OF DRYDEN.
The translators : Urquhart, Motteux, Ozell. Imitators and critics : John Hall, Bibliotheca Fanatica , A Catalogue of Books , John Phillips, Samuel Butler, N. D., M. Y., John Eachard, John Oldham, Tom Brown, Sir William Temple, Thomas Rymer, Peter Motteux, and others.....	111
V. — THE AGE OF QUEEN ANNE.
Swift, Bentley, Pope, Arbuthnot, Addison, Budgell, Young.....	152
VI. — THE AGE OF THE NOVEL.
Lord Chesterfield, Henry Fielding, Thomas Amory, Oliver Goldsmith, Charles Churchill, Samuel Johnson, Tobias Smollett, Laurence Sterne	178
VII. — CONCLUSION.
APPENDIX A. — Shakespeare and Rabelais.....	210

APPENDIX B. — John Eliot. Borrowings from Rabelais in Ortho-Epia Gallica. Eliot's Fruits for the French (London, 1593).....	216
APPENDIX C. — Ulysses upon Ajax (1596), sometimes attributed to Sir John Harington.....	221
APPENDIX D. — John Oldham (1653-83). Character of a certain Ugly Old P —,... First printed in the Year M. D. C. LXXXIV	223
APPENDIX E. — Tom Brown (1663-1704). I. A Comical View, etc. ; II. "François Rabelais, to the Physicians of Paris," etc.; III. Extract from "Beau Norton to his Brothers at Hippolito's," etc.	229
APPENDIX F. — Edmund Gayton (1608-66). Extract from Pleasant Notes upon Don Quixot (London, 1654).....	236
WORKS AND EDITIONS CITED.....	239
INDEX	249