

Table of Contents

Affiliation, Belonging, and ‘Sameness’ – New Tendencies in Dealing with Difference in the Contemporary British Novel _____	8
Difference and/in the Contemporary British Novel _____	22
Text Selection and Analytic Approach _____	32
 Section I – Ethnic Other- and Sameness _____	 40
 Zadie Smith’s On Beauty – The Creation of Sameness via the Metaphor of the Family _____	 49
(Metaphorical) Families in On Beauty _____	50
Kinship on the Basis of Consanguinity _____	51
The ‘Black Family’ _____	55
Workplace Families _____	60
On Beauty – Metaphors as a Vehicle for Sameness and a Revaluation of the Family _____	64
 Re-established Boundaries and ‘Faked’ Authenticity in Gautam Malkani’s Londonstani _____	 68
Differences in Londonstani – A Return to Established Categories? _____	76
Londonstani – A Reversal of Established Boundaries and a Revaluation of Difference _____	92

Dhaliwal Nirpal Singh's Tourism – A Return to Binary Essentialisms? 100

Narratological Patterns, Generic Influences, and Temporal Structures ___ 100

Differential Categories in Tourism _____ 114

The Family – A Source of Stability and Support? _____ 130

After Fusion and Bonding – The Proclamation of a New Biologism? ___ 134

Section II – (Covert) Same- and Otherness Within _____ 139Bernardine Evaristo's Soul Tourists – Black Britishness via a European Detour _____ 156

Space, Place, and Personality _____ 167

Gender relationships in Soul Tourists _____ 169

The 'Authenticity' of Culture and a New Concept of 'Europeanness' ___ 174

Soul Tourists – Going Beyond Established Boundaries _____ 187Louise Doughty: Stone Cradle – Same- and Otherness in Everyday Culture _____ 190Generic Features and Narratological Structures – Stone Cradle's
Interplay of Two Narrators _____ 191Forms of Bonding – The Family as a Substitute for Community
Affiliations _____ 214Everyday Culture and Exoticism in Stone Cradle _____ 225

Difference and Similarity – A Potential Left Unexploited _____ 233

Ian McEwan's Saturday – A Return to Essentialist Dichotomies or a Farcical Subversion of the Bourgeois System of Values?	237
A 'Conventional' Reading: Saturday as the Return to an Essentialising Understanding of Difference	239
Binary Oppositions as a Principal Structuring Device	239
The Arnoldian Ideal of Culture – Poetry as an Antidote to Violence	246
Reading 'Against the Grain' – Saturday as a Satirical Comment on the State of English Society	252
Melodrama and Farce – Structural and Generic Features in Saturday	254
The Hero – An Embodiment of the 'Benevolent Doctor' or a Version of the 'Mad Scientist'?	258
Narratological Structures – Tensions as a Result of the Juxtaposition of Narrative Voices	262
The Consolidation of an Arnoldian Notion of Culture as a Cure-all Remedy	268
'Defusing' Alterity by Rendering the Other Familiar	272
Beyond, After, or Aback Postmodernism? Difference, Belonging, and the Return of the Subject in Contemporary British Fiction	281
Bibliography	291